Court Check On Condition Of Highways

The judges of the Pettis County Court and Ed Hall, county road superintendent, spent about three hours Friday in the southwestern quarter of the county checking on road conditions.

According to information received from the court Monday, the check was made in view of improvement, maintenance or construction work to be done on the county's road systems.

Judge Henry Lamm Jr., president judge of the county court, and Judge Zeb Thomas, judge of the western district, reported that drainage problems were encountered in the Bryson area.

The two judges pointed out that any heavy rainfall covers the area with water, making traffic into the Bryson area difficult at best, but often impossible.

The county court, it was reported, will meet with the State Highway Department next week and discuss its findings before any work on the roadways is undertaken.

The work, once completed, will be paid for through funds obtained from the Missouri gasoline tax receipts, the court said.

Two Questioned In Murder Case

FLAT RIVER, Mo. (AP)—Sheriff Ken Buckley said today two men are being held for questioning in connection with the murder of an elderly couple Saturday night.

Buckley said Edgar Shepherd, 85, and his wife, Marie, 80, of Flat River were apparently beaten to death. He said robbery was apparently the motive for the crime.

Buckley said he could not disclose the names of the two men being held.

Newsman Returns Safe From Viet Cong Captivity

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP)—French newsman Michele Ray emerged from 21 days of Viet Cong captivity today dressed in black pajamas—the guerrilla uniform—which her captors made for her and said, "I'm very lucky."

"I'm feeling great," said the former Paris fashion model.

Speaking by telephone from An Khe, in the central highlands, Miss Ray, 28, said she would continue her attempt to drive the length of South Vietnam "if possible after some rest in Saigon."

"She still has her press credentials," an American spokesman said earlier. "She can go wherever she wants."

Miss Ray said the Viet Cong gave her a receipt for the personal belongings they took from her after she was picked up Jan. 17 near Bong Son, about 300 miles north of Saigon. She was driving across the country in a small French sedan.

She said the Viet Cong treated her well and made the black pajamas especially for her because at 5-feet-9 she is taller than the average Vietnamese.

She said her hands were tied for the first few hours after she was taken prisoner, but after

Numbing Cold Wave Knives In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A numbing cold wave knifed southward and eastward into the nation today in the wake of three successive killer snowstorms. The mercury plunged to more than 40 degrees below zero in Minnesota as the frigid thrust passed over the Canadian border.

The arctic blast provided new hardship to overworked crews striving to clear away road blocking snow drifts in parts of the winter-weary Midwest.

The third heavy snowstorm in 11 days Sunday piled new drifts atop old in Chicago and areas of the eastern Great Lakes. More roads were blocked in northern Indiana. All grade and high schools were closed in Gary.

As the cold fanned south and east, a frozen mixture of sleet and freezing rain penetrated central Texas on strong northerly winds and a swirling snowstorm buffeted by strong winds swept into New York City. One to three inches of snow were expected by nightfall in New York City.

Plug Away At Hearn's State Budget

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee plugged away at Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' budget today but both the House and Senate were in recess until Tuesday.

Members couldn't get hotel rooms because of several conventions.

When they do return to work, they face a full schedule of committee hearings or everything ranging from crash helmets for motorcyclists to increasing old age pensions.

A bill to increase old age assistance grants from $75 to $85 a month comes before the House Social Security Committee Tuesday night. Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter estimated it would cost the state about $1 million a month.

All would have to come from state funds since federal matching on a two third-one third basis stops at the present $75 maximum.

The controversial issue of shared time in public schools for handicapped or educationally deprived students of private and parochial schools is up for decision Wednesday night in an executive session of the House Education Committee headed by Rep. James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, a Protestant minister who is sponsoring the bill.

The same night another House committee hears a rerun of the annual arguments over allowing parochial students to ride public school buses.

Tuesday night the House Judiciary Committee hears a bill to prosecute juveniles under felony laws if they commit a second felony offense.

The committee also will consider a bill to penalize obscene telephone calls and another to prevent consumer fraud.

Lamy, Robert Glass and Elliott Braverman.

The Hausam boy suffered a severe depressed fracture of the forehead, multiple bruises, and some abrasions.

Mrs. Young suffered a compound fracture of the left leg; lacerations of the left arm; laceration on her head; a possible fracture of the skull; and a fractured right knee cap. She underwent surgery late Sunday night.

Trooper William Southwick of the State Highway Patrol, investigated the accident. Trooper Southwick reported Mrs. Hausam as saying, "It looked like the car lost control and came on my side of the road."

Donald Wares said that he was lying down in the back seat of their 1965 Oldsmobile and actually did not know what happened but believed his daughter went off the pavement on the right side and lost control of the car coming back on the pavement. He reported they had been to Fort Leonard Wood visiting over the weekend with Mrs. Young's husband, Dennis W. Young, who is in training there.

The Oldsmobile was headed north and Mrs. Hausam, driving a 1966 Chevrolet hardtop sedan, was headed south. It appeared as if the front of the Oldsmobile, coming back across the pavement, collided almost dead center with the left front of the Chevrolet. So terrific was the impact the left front and left side of the Chevrolet were crushed while the front, and left front door and side were badly twisted from the crash.

Two ambulances which were summoned picked up Mrs. Young, her parents and David Hausam, while a third ambulance was called for Mrs. Hausam, who was partially pinned in her car. She was released from her position while waiting for the third ambulance to arrive. The accident occurred on the crest of a small rise in the highway and was about eight tenths of a mile north of the Junction of Pettis County Highway D and J on U. S. Highway 65.

Wreckers from Parks Service Station towed the two demolished vehicles to Sedalia.

Mrs. Young was born in Marion County, Iowa, Jan. 21, 1946, daughter of Donald Lewis and Sadie Darlene Wares. She was married to Dennis W. Young, presently stationed with the U.S. Army at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. The body is at Ewing Funeral Home.

Johnson In Bold Venture To Ensure Public Safety

Troops In New Drive

Invasion Routes Will Be Exposed After Spraying

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—U.S. troops have launched a big new drive against the Viet Cong's jungle bastion in War Zone C. U.S. officials also disclosed today that chemical-spraying American planes have started defoliation of the southern half of the demilitarized zone to expose North Vietnamese invasion routes into the South.

In other developments: American ground forces reported killing more than 100 enemy soldiers in a series of engagements.

Air Force B52s staged two raids, one against War Zone C and the other just south of the demilitarized zone separating the two Vietnams.

U. S. tactical bombers flew a record 565 sorties against Communist positions and troops in South Vietnam.

Over North Vietnam, U. S. Air Force planes tangled with Communist MIGs during strikes close to Hanoi Sunday. Four F4-C Phantom jets took on eight MIG17s in a fire exchange but no damage was reported to either side.

The aerial duel came while Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs pounded a big army barracks at Xuan Mai, 20 miles west-southwest of Hanoi. The raid against the 400-acre barracks area was the closest to Hanoi since Jan. 15, when U. S. planes attacked an oil depot 14½ miles north of the Communist capital.

The first of six flights over the barracks area reported silencing three antiaircraft guns. Other pilots reported destroying three buildings and starting numerous fires.

U. S. spokesmen said the area was a training ground for anti-aircraft crews and had facilities for two battalions, or about 1,200 men.

American pilots flew 113 missions against targets in the North Sunday, the highest total since January when 116 missions were registered. A month of bad weather followed.

U.S. pilots claimed damage or destruction of 29 antiaircraft sites, 12 storage and supply buildings, seven bridges and 21 cargo barges.

The $50 million is aimed primarily at helping states and cities to help themselves in efforts to uproot crime. The money would be used in the next fiscal year under a Safe Streets and Crime Control Act, largely for grants for planning anti-crime campaigns and for research and pilot projects.

Johnson proposed that the federal government put up 90 per cent of the cost of financing the planning and 60 per cent of the outlay for action programs, such as setting up more effective alarm systems, tactical squads, special street lighting, and new rehabilitation efforts.

The crime message is one of a series of special messages sent by Johnson to Capitol Hill, spelling out details of his legislative programs.

Among other things Johnson urged the outlawing of all wiretapping, public and private, and all willful invasions of privacy by electronic devices—the only exceptions to be where national security is at stake.

Wiretapping by the federal government itself has figured in prominent legal cases lately, including the trial resulting in the conviction of Bobby Baker, a former secretary to Senate Democrats.

Johnson also urged enactment of a law to crack down on mail order sales of firearms. It was a mail order rifle that killed President John F. Kennedy.

Mail order sales could be made only between federal licensees, under this proposal. And these licensees would be barred from selling hand guns to anyone under 21, and from selling rifles and shotguns to anyone under 18.

Johnson noted that the crime rate is highest in the 10-to-21 age group and that "15-year-olds commit more of the serious crimes than any other age group, with 16-year-olds close behind."

Deny Report Of Kennedy Peace Signal

Finds No Basis For Newsweek's Claim of Overture

PARIS (AP)—The French government, the American Embassy and the North Vietnamese diplomatic mission in Paris today denied a report that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy received a "peace signal" from Hanoi through the French government during his visit to Paris last week.

Newsweek magazine reported the peace overture, which it said indicated willingness by Hanoi to negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam war in three stages, if the United States stops bombing the North. The report said the message came from Mai Van Bo, delegate general of the North Vietnamese mission in Paris and was transmitted to Kennedy and a U.S. Embassy official by the French foreign office's director of Asian affairs.

The French official, Etienne Manac'h, could not be reached for comment. But a foreign office spokesman said: "No message from the North Vietnamese delegate was transmitted by the Quai D'Orsay (the foreign ministry) to Sen. Kennedy during his visit to Paris."

The American Embassy, who had a representative with Kennedy when he talked with Manac'h, said, "We do not know of such a message."

The Vietnamese mission said it "formally denies this report" and added "there is not a word of truth" in it.

Asked about the report Sunday night, Kennedy said through an aide he would not comment until he discussed the situation with the White House and State Department. He would not say whether he means to see President Johnson personally and no date for the talks was mentioned.

Hanoi also said in the official party newspaper Nhan Dan today that peace talks could begin if the bombing stopped. The article, reported in Tokyo, did not list withdrawal of U. S. military forces from South Vietnam as a precondition to opening talks.

Orbiter 3 On Course To the Moon

Maneuver Right 'On The Money' Report Claims

PASADENA Calif. (AP)—Scientists changed the course of Lunar Orbiter 3 slightly today and said preliminary data indicated the maneuver was "right on the money."

It takes several hours of tracking to determine results accurately.

Previously the experts said the launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Saturday night was with "fantastic accuracy."

The midcourse maneuver today slowed the speed of the spacecraft by 11.4 miles per hour and changed its trajectory to put it in a more desirable position when it arrives in the vicinity of the moon Wednesday.

This will enable scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here to put the 850-pound spacecraft in a proper moon orbit for the subsequent photographing of the safest sites for landings by U.S. astronauts.

The correction was made today by burning the velocity control engine of lunar orbiter 3 for 4.4 seconds. Originally the spacecraft would have reached a point within 49 miles of the moon. The correction changed the target to a point 295 miles above the northeast edge of the lunar disk.

A spokesman explained that a higher orbit was desired for greater maneuverability.

The spacecraft, pulled by lunar gravity, was to swing behind the moon Wednesday and go into a 125 by 1,150 mile orbit. Another steering maneuver is to drop it within 28 miles of the surface Sunday and the craft should begin taking the first of up to 100 pictures Dec. 5.

The flight brightened hopes for the U.S. man-to-the-moon program, delayed indefinitely by the death of three astronauts last month in a launch-pad fire.

Lunar Orbiter 3's task is to photograph a dozen potential landing sites. Among them are 10 found most promising by scientists studying photographs of millions of square miles of the lunar surface taken by Lunar Orbiters 1 and 2.

Fair Income For Farmer Is Sought

The National Farmers Organization is gaining strength, but it still has a long way to go before farmers receive a fair income on their work and investments, according to Erhard Pfingsten, who spoke to some 600 NFO members and guests at a ham supper Saturday night.

The supper was held in the Sacred Heart Cafeteria in Sedalia. Pfingsten, a National Vice President of NFO, used the Economic Indicator figures for 1965, the last complete figures, to point out that farmers nationwide receive as income six per cent of their investment, but nothing for their work. He pointed out that many farmers were forced to supplement their income by working in nearby towns in order to meet financial obligations.

Pfingsten indicated there are several reasons for this situation, tight money and an inflationary trend that forces the economy into a tight circle. "And we don't yet know when the payoff will be." He predicted the payoff, unless some corrections are made in the basic industry of agriculture, should be about 1975.

Touching on the NFO hog and cattle holding actions a couple of years ago, the speaker admitted that the hog action, was a success, even though a short supply helped force the price up. "But without the NFO action the price to the farmer would not have been nearly as great." The cattle holding action was not as great a success, he indicated, because the organization membership did

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was deeply disappointed in your answer to the woman who wrote about her husband who preferred her silk nighties to his own pajamas.

You didn't come right out and say the man was a weirdie, but you made it obvious that you considered him mighty odd, even though his wife stated flatly that there was nothing funny about him.

My wife and I are happily married and we have three lovely children. I have been wearing my wife's girdles for several years and I am not ashamed of it. I wear a girdle because it makes my back feel better and it improves my posture. I also wear nylons under my wool socks because I need something to hold my girdle down.

I trust you will print this letter in the interest of fairness. I always thought you were open-minded—until now. —DALLAS GOLFER

Dear Dallas: I try to be open-minded but that doesn't mean I have holes in my head.

I was all set to go along with your girdle, for health reasons, although a surgical corset designed for males with back problems would have made more sense. But when I read that bit about the nylons you lost my support completely.

A word of advice to you, Old Buddy: Don't let the guys in the locker get a load of your undies or you're going to have a lot more trouble than you need.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow in my middle 70's and am living on a limited budget. The lady next door is very kind and thoughtful. She saves her newspapers and gives them to me the following day. Your column is my favorite feature.

About three times a week I find a big hole in the paper and your column is missing. Yesterday I dropped a broad hint but she didn't get the point. I said, "What did Ann Landers say today? Someone tore the column out of the paper." She replied, "Oh, it was wonderful. I sent it to my mother in St. Petersburg."

Would it be in poor taste if I asked my neighbor not to tear out your column and promised to return the paper in case she wants to clip something? —Faithful Reader When I Can Get You

Dear Faithful: I don't feel it would be in good taste to ask your neighbor not to rip things out of HER paper. Some people enjoy clipping and sending. Incidentally, I wonder if your neighbor knows that my column appears in the St. Petersburg Times, one of the country's finest newspapers. A gift subscription to that paper would be a superb gift for her mother. Suggest it.

Dear Ann Landers: The gentleman who wanted to call his wife's new teeth her Christmas.

To Shoot 600 Elk

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Some 600 elk will be shot in Yellowstone National Park to reduce the herd.

Supt. John S. McLaughlin said Saturday the animals have become too numerous.

McLaughlin said mild weather has kept the animals from wandering from the park as they usually do in winter. Hunters outside the park normally kill a number of park elk who migrate in severe weather.

Park Rangers will shoot the elk and the meat will be made available to Indian tribes in the park area.

Inflexible Course Is Not Charted

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers Union has not charted an inflexible course to withdrawal from the AFL-CIO.

Reuther likes to describe himself as "flexible" in reaching goals when bargaining with the Big Three of the automotive industry — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — which he'll be taking on later this year.

The ever-resourceful redhead has several alternative courses he may pursue in a battle already joined with the UAW's parent AFL-CIO, the most powerful labor amalgamation in history, although these do not appear on the surface.

Unquestionably, however, in his attempt to reshape policies of the AFL-CIO, disaffiliation is a distinct threat from the man who was principal architect of the amalgamation and whose 1.4-million-member union is its largest affiliate.

The UAW has been quarreling for months within the AFL-CIO closed councils on what the UAW said it considers to be inadequate efforts to organize the unorganized, too little involvement in social actions such as civil rights and an inflexible stand against U.S. coexistence with Iron Curtain countries.

It brought the squabble out publicly in a manifesto to union locals charging that these and other AFL-CIO policies fail to "fulfill the basic aims and purposes which prompted the merger."

Certain withdrawal was a conclusion reached by many in the double-barreled action taken by the UAW's 26-member International Executive Board on Friday. Top AFL-CIO sources in Washington were quoted as assuming as much.

Reuther was ordered to give up his vice presidency of the AFL-CIO, which automatically gave him a seat on the ruling parent's Executive Council. At the same time, it directed its other three top officers to give up seats on committees operating under the Executive Council.

It also ordered the agenda for its April 20-22 prebargaining convention to include "discussion and action" in a review of relations between the UAW and AFL-CIO.

If delegates clamor, as is likely through loyalty to Reuther, for withdrawal, one source within the UAW pointed out this might give Reuther a chance to rush forward with an impassioned plea for solidarity — the UAW's slogan — and heroically preserve the AFL-CIO.

Still another source cautioned, "Never say it — the UAW's action — is a prelude to pullout."

Johnson Prepares For Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is moving to shore up its bases for the 1968 election — including states where former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace might cause it trouble.

Administration strategists are lining up some Southern governors and senators to run as presidential favorite sons in 1968 primaries if necessary to muffle Wallace at the Democratic National Convention.

And Democratic state chairmen and vice chairmen have been asked to meet here March 30-31 to discuss campaign planning.

Two names listed as possible pro-Johnson favorite sons are Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina.

McKeithen won administration favor last month when he accused Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York of wanting the President defeated in 1968 so Kennedy could reunite the party and become its 1972 nominee.

The administration also was reported as highly satisfied with Georgia Gov. Lester G. Maddox's visit with Johnson last week, though no one is predicting he's going to turn out as an ardent Johnson supporter.

Part of the bridge-building in Southern states where the President is regarded as politically unpopular is to insure the national Democratic ticket will at least be on the ballot.

Strategists believe they could win some doubtful states in a three-way race if Republicans and Wallace split the anti-administration vote.

The March 30-31 meeting of state Democratic leaders, called by John M. Bailey, national party chairman, recognizes by implications the criticism voiced by some leaders after Republican gains in last November's elections.

Bailey said the meeting "comes at a time in our preparations for the 1968 campaign when an exchange of national - state party views and plans is especially important."

"We will have announced a number of specific and important programs and we will have others in the planning stage" by meeting time.

On the Republican presidential front, GOP House Leader Gerald R. Ford said in an interview today he considers Michigan Gov. George Romney as "still the front runner."

Ford said former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the other major contender and "there is no one else now on the same rung of the ladder."

Romney has been seen by some as slipping because of vagueness on the Vietnam issue, but Ford, also from Michigan, said "that when Gov. Romney's position in Vietnam is set forth, it will be thoughtful, based on how we can best end the conflict in Vietnam successfully."

Varying Footage And Wide Eyes Fill Up 'Mailbag'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you're the kind of person who is always putting his foot in his mouth, you'd probably be more comfortable if you used your right foot for this purpose. In nine out of 10 people it is smaller than the left foot.

Some psychologists say that your eyes get wider the harder you think. But it has been my experience that many business executives close their eyes when they're thinking. At least they claimed they were thinking.

Few people love their homeland more than the Japanese. In 99 years, only 1,210,000 have emigrated, and most of them went to Brazil or the United States. Last year only 600 migrated. A further oddity: The entire continent of Africa has only nine permanent Japanese residents.

Here's a sobering statistic for motor car drivers: The chances are six in 10 that you will be involved in an accident within the next four years.

Prosperity note: The average bankruptcy case involves not a big corporation but a little guy. He is about 35 years old, has three kids, holds a blue-collar job and owes debts between $3,000 and $4,000.

Quotable notables: "Don't be afraid of opposition. Remember, a kite rises against, not with, the wind" — Hamilton Mabie.

Pioneers: If women can train a husband, shouldn't they also be able to train thoroughbred horses? Well, of course, they can. And at the present meeting of the Bowie, Md., race track there are five women trainers.

Sign on the back of a pest control truck: "Drive carefully and leave the exterminating to us?"

Science has found it is healthy to laugh. Laughter exercises the diaphragm and peps up the heart, brings in more oxygen to the lungs, increases the performance of the liver, stimulates the digestive glands in the stomach, intestines and pancreas, even helps against constipation. So if you want to feel as good as Santa Claus, don't forget to "Ho, ho, ho!"

Worth remembering: "There aren't any rules for success that work unless you do."

Geography: You can't beat America for interesting place names. In Arkansas there is a Morning Sun and an Evening Shade.

The U.S. population is expected during 1968 to pass the 200 million mark. That means some kid will be born next year who will probably grab the parking space you'll be looking for in 1988.

It was G. K. Chesterton who observed, "Youth is always too serious, and just now it is too serious about frivolity."

A Nun's Decision

EDITOR'S NOTE — A Catholic college in Missouri made headlines recently by announcing plans to sever church ties and re-emerge as a secular institution. At the same time, the school's president said she would seek release from her nun's vows. Here's the unusual story behind the decisions.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — "Nuns," said Sister Jacqueline Grennan, "have no business in my kind of role."

Her black habit and the vows it signified were chafing the president of Webster College. Her energies were more and more in demand outside the church as she gained a reputation as a brilliant educator with fresh ideas.

"I'm really a social actionist who believes the great glory in the human race is what sometimes is called statistical evolution," she said. "There is a whole battery of people's responsible actions that forms the future."

Webster College, along with many other church-supported institutions of higher learning, was following a difficult path as a liberal arts school with a predominantly lay faculty. The Roman Catholic Sisters of Loretto, who operate Webster, has only 24 nuns among the school's 114 teachers. Of the 24, only nine wear clerical garb.

Recently Sister Jacqueline announced a decision aimed at solving both the college's problem and her own: The Lorettes will try to give away the college and she has asked to be released from her vow in order to continue as president.

"It is my personal conviction that the very nature of higher education is opposed to juridical (legal) control by the church," she said. "The academic freedom which must characterize a college or university would provide continuing embarrassment for the church."

"The conflict is between the old view held by some Catholics that education is indoctrination and the other view that education is learning. I am certainly in favor of seminaries as seminaries, but a liberal arts college should be that — a college. Academic freedom is the stuff of colleges and universities."

Occasionally fingering an unfamiliar strand of pearls, Sister Jacqueline — now Miss Grennan — talked a few days later about her announcement.

"I made the decision to ask dispensation of my vows a year ago in September," she said, "but I felt a deep moral commitment to the college. When the Sisters of Loretto moved in November to yield the trusteeship to a secular board it became tactical to implement my conscience decision."

Miss Grennan said she has received temporary dispensation of vows from the superior general of the Sisters of Ooretto and that approval from Rome is only a formality. Born Jean Farie Grennan, daughter of a farm couple near Sterling, Ill., she chose the name of Jacqueline in memory of her brother, Jack, who died at 21. She filed a court petition last week to change the name to Jacqueline legally.

Other Catholic colleges and universities, including the University of Notre Dame, are considering proposals to add laymen to their boards — but Webster is the first to ask the Vatican's Congregation of Religious to relinquish control.

"We do not feel the answer is a mixed board because responsibility would still lie with the congregation," the Sisters of Loretto said.

In the background are two major developments:

The Vatican II document on the church and the modern world issued in 1965 urged more lay participation in church affairs. And the U.S. Supreme Court last Nov. 14 refused to review a Maryland case involving grants to four church-operated colleges.

Mrs. James C. Donahue, head of the U.S. Catholic Conference's Education Office, has said: "In light of the Maryland college case especially, probably all Catholic colleges are taking a hard look at their organizational structure."

The Maryland Court of Appeals, the state's highest, had upheld a state grant to Hood College, citing the looseness of its ties with the United Church of Christ and the diversity of its staff and student body. But the court found the reverse to be true at the College of Notre Dame in Baltimore and St. Joseph's College in Emmitsburg, both Roman Catholic, and Western Maryland College at Westminster, a Methodist school. Grants to these three schools were ruled unconstitutional.

"Someone is sure to raise the question of federal grants if we don't get the release from Rome," Miss Grennan said, "but if we don't get it, we'll go back again and again until we do."

Webster College has had curriculum development grants of $1.5 million from the federal government over the last four or five years, and also has received government housing loans.

The Sisters of Loretto, Miss Grennan said, "are not asking a dime for the property."

"In civil law, the college is run by the Webster Groves Corp.," she said. "It is not a holding of the Sisters of Loretto. The only change in civil law is to amend the charter to allow for lay members but church law holds that we must get permission from Rome."

Sister Francetta Barberis, who preceded Miss Grennan as president of Webster, "secularized" herself to work in Washington for the Women's Job Corps. Unlike Miss Grennan, she remains a member of the order, although she has laid aside its habit.

"This could not have happened a year ago or even six months ago," said Sister Francetta of the decision to make Webster a secular college. She considers it the opening of a "new wide world" for the Catholic Church and a forward step for all education.

"On the whole our mail is extraordinarily positive; positive about the college decision, very respectful about my own personal decision," said Miss Grennan.

"Some of the more negative reactions are negative because they perceive what I said as a kind of disclaimer of religious life. I think if one carefully reads what I said, it is not. I clearly said many, many nuns continue to prefer the more conventional and juridical form of life and would work within the church institution. I also said others would work as individuals in the more public sector. I feel my role is in the market place."

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen was in St. Louis the day after Miss Grennan's announcement and commented curtly: "I am more interested in Nathan Hales than in Benedict Arnolds."

Was there much similar reaction?

"Bishop Sheen's comment was the only one of its kind from any cleric," Miss Grennan replied. "My own acquaintances and friends have been terribly warm and understanding."

The limits of what she, personally, could or could not do as a nun was brought home to Miss Grennan in June 1965. Directors of the St. Louis Anti-Poverty Agency, interviewing her for the position of general manager, asked if she could vote on the agency's birth control information program without having to consult her religious superiors.

"Under the vow of obedience it meant I had given someone else the authority to limit or veto my decisions," Miss Grennan said. "I came to realize that I could not live as a responsible and productive human being for the rest of my life under the vow."

Miss Grennan, a slender 40 with big, intense, gray eyes — is the only woman — and only Roman Catholic — on the President's Advisory Panel on Research and Development in Education. She also was on anti-poverty Director Sargent Shriver's Committee for Project Head Start to help preschool children from impoverished areas.

Under Miss Grennan, Webster developed a national reputation for intellectual freewheeling.

"What we want and get, at best, is a great regard for the responsibility of personal decision making — in the classroom, in planning life, in moral behavior and in social relationships," she said.

"Our major innovation is in teacher education, the whole approach in curriculum reform. We see the learning process as the continuing sophistication of the power to probe, to ask questions of physical and social reality as the real aim of liberal learnings."

To help lead Webster's 900 students — 740 girls and only 60 boys — in the "power to probe," Miss Grennan has recruited such outside experts as Syracuse University's Dr. Robert B. Davis, developer of the highly regarded Madison Project in elementary mathematics. He commutes to Webster every other week.

"We are very much interested in creating a learning commuty within the college," said Miss Grennan. "A community that probes and stimulates and is terribly open to as many other kinds of probers and learners as we can bring into a college community — or to whom we as members of the college community can go."

GIs Will Get Address Of A Beauty

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-four fighting men in Vietnam will get the address of the miniskirted lassie they saw stepping daintily over a Manhattan snowbank. Not only her address — pinup pictures too. And maybe even a visit from the gal herself.

It all goes back to last Dec. 27, when the snow in Manhattan wasn't quite as high as an elephant's eye, but high enough.

On that date a New York Daily News photographer snapped a picture of an attractive girl making her way through the snows of Central Park South.

Came a letter to the newspaper from Sgt. Cesar A. Soriano, spokesman for the mortar platoon of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry, 196th Light Infantry Brigade, serving in Vietnam.

Soriano wrote: "Pertaining to your issue of Tuesday, Dec. 27 appears a picture of a young lady by the name of Tina Scala. We have been day after day admiring the picture of the above mentioned brunette."

Tina's photo, Soriano said, produced an overpowering urge on behalf of himself and his 43 buddies to correspond with her, "thereby satisfying the many hearts that are throbbing in high gear."

Tina, actress sister of film star Gia Scala, commented Sunday: "I'm overwhelmed."

Delight showing in her blue-green eyes — the product of her Italian-Irish background, Tina added, "I'm so — how do you say it — it has really hit me."

Miss Scala, whose measurements are 36-24-36, said she would be happy to send letters and pinup shots to her fans in Vietnam. Moreover, she added, she would like to travel to the war zone with an entertainment troupe.

Red Guards Terrorize Families

MOSCOW (AP) — Wives and children from the Soviet Embassy in Peking arrived today telling of being terrorized by Red Guards before their departure. Shortly thereafter, hundreds of Russians marched on Red China's embassy and some invaded the grounds, the Chinese reported.

A group of 97 dependents of Soviet diplomats reported they were held up at the airport for six hours after pushing their way through menacing crowds of Red Guards. Included in the plane load were 60 children.

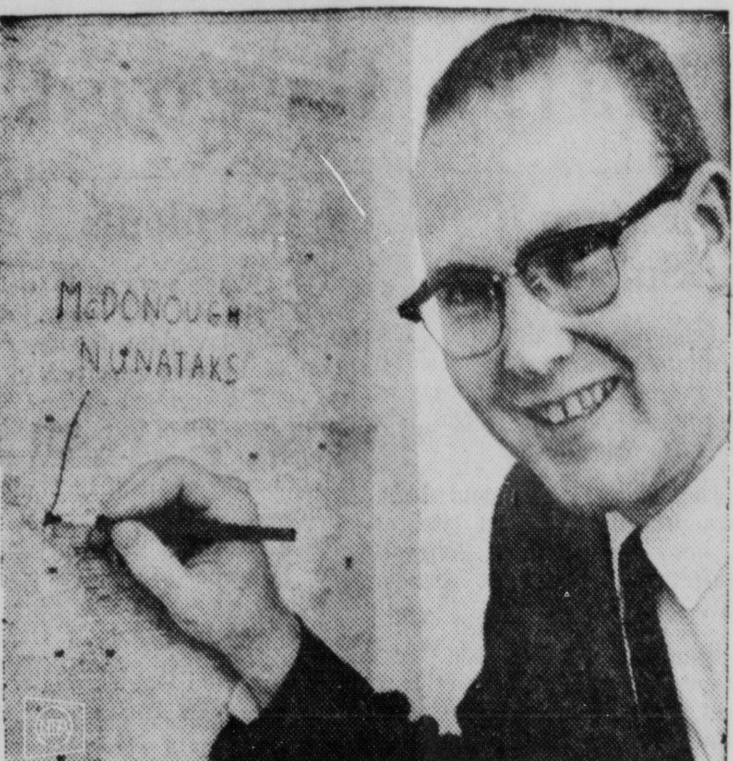

A second group of about 50 women and children left Peking Tass, the Soviet news agency, said they had to make their way to the airport building through "a raging crowd which furiously shouted and threatened violence."

A report from Peking by the Japan Broadcasting Corp. said foreign diplomats escorted the Russians to the airport and linked arms to form a protective corridor so they could board the plane.

Shouting Red Guards pushed the wives of the French and Danish ambassadors and they fell to the ground, the dispatch added.

Other diplomats identified in the crowd were from Britain, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany, Bulgaria and Mongolia, Tass reported.

A Foreign Ministry official said the first plane bound for Moscow "was deliberately held up by the orders of Chinese authorities in Peking yesterday." He said a protest had been filed with the Chinese Embassy.

NOT MANY people under 30 can point to a range of mountains named after them. An exception is John McDonough, 27, young scientist for whom the McDonough Nunataks have been named in Antarctica. The range was so designated by the U.S. Board of Geographic Names of the National Science Foundation in honor of McDonough's 15 months of research accomplished in the frozen wastes for the National Bureau of Standards from 1961 to 1963.

Plane Loss Is Double The Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources indicate U. S. aircraft losses in Southeast Asia are double what the Pentagon has announced, because officials have deleted losses of nonattack planes.

These sources said Sunday night the Defense Department has announced only the losses of attack aircraft to enemy fire or missiles while operating over North or South Vietnam.

Deleted from the list, the informants said, have been cargo, observation or other support-type aircraft that have been downed, irreparably damaged or destroyed by the Communists while the craft were on an airstrip.

The sources said the United States in the last five years has lost more than twice the $55 helicopters previously announced by the Pentagon. At the same time, they said, about 1,200 fixer wing planes have been destroyed, compared with the Pentagon figure of 621.

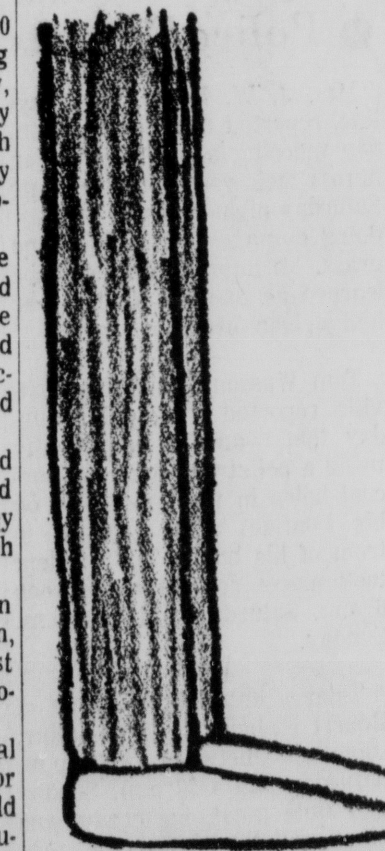

The Defense Department has said the fixed wing losses include 471 over North Vietnam and 150 over South Vietnam. It lists all but four of the helicopter losses in the South.

The Pentagon says aircraft worth about $1 billion were lost in the North in the two years since the United States began bombing there. During the same time, it adds, more than 400 pilots have been lost.

Spokesmen said the complete figures have not been announced to prevent the enemy from learning the extent of U.S. losses.

They said a detailed public accounting of U. S. losses is expected early this week. They explained the Pentagon now is conferring with the U. S. command in Saigon to compile the list.

New Word Crops Up For Priests

ST. MARY'S, Kan. (AP) — A new and unfamiliar word will be heard and felt in the next few years by the thousands of priests who teach in some of the country's biggest universities. The word: experimentation.

The priests are members of the Society of Jesus which operates such universities as Fordham, St. Louis, Georgetown, Detroit, San Francisco, Marquette and Loyola. More than half of the 8,400 Jesuits in this country are educators in high schools and colleges.

Experimentation is a recurrent term running through the 52 decrees hammered out by the Jesuit 31st General Congregation, which ended in Rome in November last year. It will affect every part of their lives, from training and prayers, to whether their work in some areas is obsolete while new needs are being neglected.

To discuss the meaning of the meetings in Rome — which began in May 1965 — the society held a three-day institute on Jesuit renewal at St. Mary's College in which recognized church authorities and assistants to the society's general in Rome took part. The institute ended Sunday.

"You can't go any more into such highly sophisticated and industrialized societies as Japan and simply teach catechism to convert people," said the Rev. Andrew Varga, assistant to the general of the society and now in charge of the survey and evaluation of the society throughout the world.

"We cannot go in with a superiority complex, trying to teach them our way. To make our work meaningful we have to work with lay people and lay leaders."

For the next two or three years, Jesuits will be allowed to experiment with programs and survey their work with a freedom never experienced before in the society founded in the 15th century. More local initiative — without consultations with Rome — will be permitted.

Fire: Undetermined origin destroyed the six room farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jenkins, Route 2, Sedalia, early Sunday morning. Also destroyed by fire was an old model Dodge sedan which was parked just east of the residence.

Jenkins was returning to his home about 1:15 a.m. when he noticed while traveling down Pettis County Route C, flames in the vicinity of his home. As he topped the hill near his home he discovered it was his residence, which was barely two years old. The fire had already consumed the home and there was no chance of saving anything.

The County Fire Department received the call at 1:37 a.m. at which time they were informed the house was already beyond saving. Arriving at the scene there was no one around and a few minutes later Jenkins arrived, having gone to notify Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

He said there was some insurance on the residence, but how much he was not confident to say until he checked with the company with whom he had a mortgage. He said there were several valuable antiques in the home besides the family's furniture and articles belonging to his children.

The County firemen stood by until the embers had burned themselves down enough that there was no danger of the fire spreading.

Accidents

Two Warsaw men were brought to the Bothwell Hospital Saturday night, for observation of injuries received in a one vehicle accident at the Cole Camp Junction of U. S. Highway 65 and State Route 52. The accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

They were J. Eugene Crabtree, 45, owner of the 1966 Ford pickup truck which was reportedly driven by Frank M. Ochsner, 63. Both men suffered painful multiple cuts and contusions about their faces and Ochsner complained of a chest injury.

The two men were taken in the Fox ambulance to the clinic of Dr. Arturo Gonzalez Jr., in Cole Camp and then brought to Sedalia in the ambulance and admitted for observation.

Although the truck belonged to Crabtree, Ochsner told Trooper John Cummings of the Highway Patrol, Warsaw, that he was driving the vehicle. The truck was headed north on U. S. Highway 65 and it apparently failed to make a curve at the junction, travelling between two highway reflector standards, over the shoulder, down a slight embankment, shot up the shoulder of the north arm of the "Y" junction across the pavement, jumped a ditch on the north side of the north arm, up into the property of V. S. Lujin, of Lujin's Texaco station. There the car collided with a small ice storage chest, knocking it northward, smashing two minnow tanks, and stopped straddling the ice chest. The truck also knocked down a neon gasoline sign on a post at the corner of the property.

Charles Jones of Cole Camp, driving a 1963 Ford, was headed out on the north arm of the "Y" toward Highway 65, when the truck went "shooting by in front of me," Jones said. He reported, "It missed me by only this much," holding his hands in front of him about two feet apart.

Bill Atkins, of Emma's Cafe, located across the street from the accident, said he was looking out the window and saw the accident. "At first I didn't know what was going on, but I was about the first one to the truck when it stopped," he said.

Cole Camp Night Marshal and Deputy Sheriff Clayton Smarts went to the scene and notified the Highway Patrol by radio via the Benton County Sheriff's office. He assisted with traffic while the truck was removed off the ice chest.

The W-K wrecker from Cole Camp towed the truck away.

An accident was reported on private property of the Wheel Inn, Broadway and Limit, about 1:51 p.m. Sunday. No injuries were reported.

The police report indicated a 1967 Mustang driven by Daniel J. Sylvester, 20, of 803 East 12th, started to pass a 1966 Chevrolet tudor driven by Cleo R. Casdorpn, 19, of Route 2, Sedalia, on the right side. As the Mustang started around it was reported the Chevrolet started up and the right end of the front bumper caught the left rear panel of the Mustang, resulting in some damage.

Both cars were driven from the scene.

Police Reports

Mrs. J. W. Boger, 2803 Skyline, reported to the police Sunday morning a car was driven across their yard sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday, doing damage to the lawn and grass. No information could be learned as to what kind of car had driven over the yard.

Tom Wasson, 402 East Boonville, reported to the police Sunday that vandals apparently using a pellet gun had shot several holes in the windshield on his Pontiac while parked in front of his home. The incident took place sometime between 6 a.m. Saturday and 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Thieves entered the home of Robert Fisher, 201 East Saline, sometime between 6:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:30 p.m. Sunday and stole meat, ice cream and other articles from the residence.

Entrance was gained apparently by unlocking the front door.

Stolen from a deep freeze was an undetermined amount of packaged beef and a half gallon of ice cream. Other articles included a .22-caliber automatic pistol, and a leather holster valued at $70, two quart jars with an undetermined amount of change in them and three one-dollar bills.

A residence at 2203 South Osage, was reported to have been broken into sometime in the past few days and articles valued at $376 stolen.

Reported taken was a table and four chairs, one divan and

The robbery was discovered by Lawrence Heard, of Marshall, who came to Sedalia to look after the property. The doors to the residence were standing open when he arrived. There was no evidence of forced entry.

J. E. Mullins, Independence, reported to the police that while his car was parked at 717 East 10th, between 6:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday, vandals believed to have used pellet guns had shot out the left rear glass of his 1962 Ford station wagon.

A juvenile boy, allegedly with the Stroehmer girl at the time of the Jan. 29 incident, is currently being held in a juvenile detention center in Boonville, testimony in the case indicated.

Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong questioned the charges brought against the Stroehmer girl. There was some indication that the charges against her might be reduced before she is tried in Circuit Court.

Judge Armstrong set bond at $1,000 on each of the three charges, and she is being held in the Pettis County jail in lieu of bond.

Anniversary Of Bomb Runs

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The American bombing of the North has been going on for two years old Tuesday.

To date, it has cost the United States more than 400 pilots dead, captured or missing and 471 aircraft worth roughly $1 billion by Pentagon estimates.

In the wake of publicity and protests about the bombing, a great debate is raging. Is the bombing worth it? Or is the offensive, as some insist, largely a failure in achieving U.S. objectives?

Frequently North Vietnam hints that the bombing is the greatest single obstacle to negotiations on the Vietnam war. But Hanoi has failed to say what it would do to scale down the war if the offensive is halted.

There are confusion and apparent contradiction in official statements about the effectiveness of the raids on the North.

Some say stop the bombing altogether. Others say restrictions on U.S. pilots create frustrations for them and sanctuaries for the enemy in the North. Some say the restrictions render ineffective the effort to impede infiltration of troops and supplies to the Viet Cong in the South.

President Johnson says the United States is "conducting the most careful and self-limited air war in history."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., leading Senate protests against restrictions, says: "One thing is sure. We must either fight or get out."

Here are some major complaints of U.S. pilots and other military men:

U.S. bombers use approved and known runs to established targets, and the North Vietnamese, aware of this, can concentrate heavy antiaircraft fire.

U.S. airmen now are forbidden to bomb key targets in the North: industrial complexes, oil depots and the vital irrigation system, either because of a possibility of hitting civilians or because of prospective political complications.

U.S. pilots must bypass barges loaded with trucks and ammunition, must pass up enemy airfields crowded with Communist jet warplanes. One flier said he had to fly past barges unloading trucks and supplies "which later I attack, with questionable success, in the jungles of the Ho Chi Minh Trails."

After a tour of Vietnam recently, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reported a trend in the Communist North to disperse antiaircraft batteries and key supply depots among heavily populated areas because the Communists know "our policy is not to attack populated areas per se." The net result, he said, was in some instances to make installations immune to attack.

Washington sources have reported the administration in January barred bomber flights from an area 10 miles in diameter over the center of Hanoi, which can be penetrated only if an American pilot is engaged in air combat with enemy fighters. But one source said this hardly mattered because "we're so restricted anyway."

The Pentagon has not confirmed or denied these reports, nor one that the Air Force and Navy must have permission for each bombing raid within 30 miles of Hanoi. They can attack surface-to-air missile sites without explicit Defense Department approval, though the 10-mile diameter rule likely would hold in this case, too.

U.S. policy makers prefer not to bomb airfields in the North on grounds that it might force the North Vietnamese to use fields in Red China. It is argued that this could lead to "hot pursuit" across the border, thus raising a possibility of direct Chinese involvement in the war. U.S. officers in Vietnam say this restriction threatens the American bombing offensive itself.

Officers say that since U.S. losses to MIG fighters totaled 10 planes in the year and a half since the first MIG encounter, it is conceivable that 10 planes and pilots would have been saved if airfields had been attacked at the outset.

However, they express more concern about the bombing of the North itself. The North Vietnamese, the argument goes, have used MIGs not so much to attack U.S. fighters as to menace bombers and force them to lighten loads by dropping bombs before targets are reached. Hence, they add, the MIG problem has been not so much one of pilot casualties as one of impeding the effectiveness of the bombing runs. Many pilots say they want to bomb the MIG bases, four of which are in the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

As for losses, the Defense Department estimates the value of the planes at an average of $2 million each. This would be $942 million for 471 planes. The Pentagon declines to say exactly how many pilots were downed, but obviously all but a few of those lost were brought down over North Vietnam.

The losses — and Western visitors' reports of civilian casualties in the North — have fanned the embers of the debate, but the argument is not new. It dates back almost to the day the offensive began, Feb. 7, 1965.

The story was much the same on the first anniversary a year ago. In the first year 30,000 tons of bombs were dropped in 15,000 sorties, but troops and supplies continued to pour from north to south. The "main lesson was that planes would have to fly more often and drop many more bombs on a greater variety of targets if the raids were to serve their purpose," an AP analysis at that time said.

Pilots could destroy or neutralize "assigned" targets, but major targets were not assigned. Pilots were restricted to bridges and vehicles on eight major highways, rail lines, rolling stock, ferries, barges, power plants and the like.

In the second year of the offensive, the number of sorties increased sharply. The U.S. command discontinued announcing "sorties" — one attack by one plane — against the North. But Saigon sources say 90,000 or more in the second year would be a reasonably good estimate.

Since late December, however, restrictions on the U.S. pilots have been even greater, possibly because of publicity resulting from the visits of Western newsmen and others to Hanoi, and their reports on civilian casualties. No bombs have fallen on the Hanoi suburbs since the Dec. 13-14 attacks on a truck depot and rail yard there. The depot and yard now are off limits.

The bombing offensive was launched two years ago as an announced response to a major Viet Cong terror attack on U.S. installations at Pleiku, staged at a time when Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kossygin was in Hanoi talking to Ho Chi Minh's regime. The bombing was described as a retaliation, and also as an effort to make the war too expensive for Hanoi and to halt infiltration of troops and supplies from the North to the Viet Cong.

How effective has the offensive been? The estimates are confusing.

Last June 29 U.S. bombers hit fuel depots in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas. The Pentagon said the depots represented 60 per cent of the North's strategic oil supplies and commented: "The price of the war has gone up." But it also said only 15 per cent of the North petroleum facilities had been knocked out.

On June 30, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said the bombing would "seriously affect the ability of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to carry on guerrilla and military activities." Sen.

Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said: "We're absolutely astounded at the real precision results" and that 66 per cent of petroleum storage facilities in the North had been reached "right on target."

But on July 9, U.S. officials conceded that the oil depot near Haiphong had been much less severely hit than originally claimed.

A week later, Cyrus R. Vance, deputy defense secretary, reported about two thirds of the North's oil storage capacity destroyed. He conceded the raids could not completely shut off the flow of men and munitions to the South but could "impose a ceiling, and we believe it will do so."

Despite prolonged aerial efforts to wreck the North's highway transport system, the U.S. command in Saigon said June 29 that "as compared with 1965 averages, truck movements from North to South Vietnam during the first five months of 1966 have doubled."

On Dec. 5, Pentagon sources said day and night attacks since spring had destroyed more than 1,000 North Vietnamese trucks. Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, said enemy motor traffic into South Vietnam was "dropping sharply."

But last month, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said there had been no reduction below anticipated levels in infiltration of North Vietnamese forces into South Vietnam. The latest reports had been 5,200 to 5,300 a month, which he said had been expected. Gen. Wheeler said some reports placed the infiltration rate as high as 7,000 in recent months and "to say it had fallen off drastically would be a mistake."

Over-all for the year, McNamara reported the North had infiltrated at least 48,000 men into the South and possibly 26,000 more. The "possibles" would make the yearly average 6,100 a month, well above figures anticipated by the Pentagon.

McNamara estimated the Viet Cong toward year's end were losing 5,000 men a month. He put Viet Cong net strength at 25,000 above the year before.

Yet McNamara said air operations "have produced the results we expected of them." He said that when the bombing started, "We did not believe the air attacks on North Vietnam by themselves would bring its leaders to the conference table or break the morale of its people, and they have not done so."

Last month, Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., U.S. Marine Corps commandant, said: "I believe the air campaign has been a very useful one. It has had tremendous harassing impact." Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, said if it had not been for the raids, Communist troops in the South "would have been better supplied with weapons and ammunition than was the case."

Yet there was evidence that the raids had failed in larger objectives. "Bombing will not be effective in Vietnam until it is used correctly," protested Sen. Symington last month. "If we don't eliminate this target limitation, it isn't right to send these men out to risk their lives in an expensive airplane to bomb just an empty barracks or bus."

President Johnson told a news conference Thursday he won't be willing to halt the bombing of North Vietnam if Hanoi's government agreed to "almost any step" in return that might lead to de-escalation of the war. He added that with the knowledge that is supplied him, he failed to detect on Hanoi's part any "serious effort to either go to a conference table or bring the war to an end."

Gen. Wheeler, as other high military men, has been against a halt in the bombing of the North. Wheeler called it an "integral and indispensable part of our concept in Vietnam."

Since the policy dispute broke out anew in late December, hundreds more missions have been flown over North Vietnam, but no bombs have fallen near Hanoi.

This and other factors have prompted the military men to say that their fears have been realized: That the administration has decided to slow down the air war over the North at least temporarily.

Young Girl Is Found After Alleged Attacks

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — An 18-year-old girl, unclothed and wrapped in a sheet, was found lying under a truck on Shawnee Avenue Sunday morning.

The girl, a high school student, told police she was abducted Friday afternoon at Sixth and Minnesota and was raped by three men who held her captive in a room.

She said they blindfolded her before taking her into the room, and again when they took her to the spot where she was released.

The girl said she had just left the public library Friday when a man held a knife to her neck and forced her to walk about a block to a parked car. There were two other men in the car, she said.

After taking her into the building, she said, the men forced her to drink something that made her drunk.

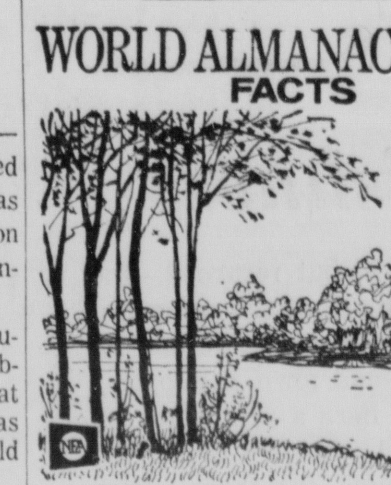

The girl's parents reported to police Friday night that she was missing.

Protest Is Made After Man Arrested

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A protest against the arrest of Richard Eugene Walker, 24, was made Sunday night by 21 members of the Citizens for United Action who gathered at police headquarters.

A spokesman, the Rev. John Bethel, said he understood police arrested Walker on a street, then took him into an appliance store and beat him.

Maj. Sterling Ford let Bethel and the Rev. Archie Allen talk to Walker, who admitted police caught him in the store. A medical examination showed Walker had suffered only a superficial dog bite wound on an ankle, police said.

Bethel withdrew the protest and the United Action group dispersed.

Enlightened Unselfishness

Sadness is among us. Virginia Flower did not resist death as an unwanted inevitability; rather, she desired to remain as long as possible in communication with and helpful of less fortunate persons especially handicapped children whom she loved as though they were her own.

Among poignant memories again comes recollection of the two-story house at Broadway and Moniteau where Virginia and her parents, new in town in 1903, came to visit our family. She met a boy she never knew before, a lad of six years, ill in bed. There was not much conversation with this four-year-old girl, but we still remember that her visit brought cheer by presence only.

They both grew up in Sedalia, went to parties, to school, to church young people's meetings, cooked fudge in her kitchen with other youngsters. Then they were both gone for a while, but returned—she to become president of the community's leading department store and he editor of the home town newspaper.

Now he pays here a few words of tribute to a girl who in womanhood has done so much for those whom the Lord loves.

How difficult it is to embellish a tribute that has already been established and acknowledged in the hearts and minds of the Sedalia community.

Virginia's influence on the lives of other people—men, women and children—has become more perpetual than etchings on stone, steel or brass.

In death, sorrow comes; but only for a moment.

Now a glowing light of inspiration becomes the symbol in eternal memory of a gracious and charitable woman whose example is one for others to emulate in abating man's inhumanity to man. GHS

Spud Champion

John Cooke, a British gardener, made a half a ton of potatoes grow where six little potatoes grew before, and he became the world's spud growing champion. How did he do it? With seaweed, old straw and cuddling and coaxing in a frost-free room on his Sussex farm.

Gardening is John Cooke's hobby. Raising potatoes started as a joke, but he was soon bitten by the competitive potato bug. All winter he nursed his six potatoes in a special seaweed solution. At planting time his yard was covered with bales of old straw. He built up the soil and dug deeply into the ground. He planted the roots seven feet apart in a trench 50 feet long and six feet wide, and piled old wet straw around them. He uses a complete fertilizer plus seaweed at eight ounces per square yard at the time of planting. When the leaves come up he sprays weekly with seaweed solution. Mr. Cooke's yield from six white Irish potatoes was a record crop of 1,007 pounds, 7 ounces and his fifth world's championship.

Many lessons can be learned from the Cooke competitive spirit. Why worry about

Patman Gets Slapped By Colleagues

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Having stripped the Harlem globe-trotter, Adam Clayton Powell, of his committee power, and having rebuffed Dixiecrat John B. Williams of Mississippi on restoration of seniority because of his disloyalty, the House turned around last week and penalized one of the most loyal and senior congressmen — Wright Patman of Texas.

The contrast between Patman, Powell and Williams is interesting.

Powell has a flagrant absentee record, is one of the outstanding congressional junketers and used airplane credit cards illegally.

John Bell Williams deserted the Democratic party and Lyndon Johnson in 1964 to campaign for Barry Goldwater. He consistently voted against the policies of Democratic Presidents Truman, Kennedy and Johnson.

Patman, in contrast, gets to work every morning between 5:30 and 8 a.m., works all day Saturday, has never missed a roll call except for illness, never takes a trip anywhere while Congress is in session, doesn't junket abroad even when Congress is out of session, supports the administration on almost every vote.

Furthermore, Patman is the third oldest congressman in point of service, with 38 years in the House.

However, he has committed one cardinal sin as chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee: he wants to investigate the big bankers. He has also criticized high interest rates and the Federal Reserve Board for hiking rates.

Bankers' Spokesman

For this he has incurred the wrath of opposition of the No. 1 spokesman of the bankers' lobby, Rep. "Lud" Ashley, the Toledo Democrat and also a member of the Banking and Currency Committee.

Ashley is a debonair and delightful young man who came to Washington 12 years ago as an obscure Democrat. Ashley, with his gay way, has become quite a man about town and the darling of the big bankers.

One of his secretaries, Kathleen Lucey, is the sister of Emmet Lucey, former lobbyist for the Progressive Bankers Association. John Holton and Jim Smith, lobbyists for the American Banking Association, are Ashley's pals.

At the last session of Congress, Ashley tangled with Chairman Patman of the Banking and Currency Committee in trying to scuttle an investigation of the big bankers, and with the new Congress he began early to do the same. Even before the first meeting of the House Banking and Currency Committee, word got around that Ashley was going to clip Patman's wings in the same way Adam Clayton Powell's wings were first clipped, over the right to hire staff members. The word was that Ashley had all 14 Republican committee members in his pocket.

In Ashley's Pocket

Not many Democrats are able to control

Republican congressmen, so I called up several Republicans. Rep. Chester Mize of Kansas indignantly protested that he was not in Ashley's pocket, though he said he had recently returned from a trip through Eastern Europe with Ashley and that they were friends.

Rep. William Stanton of Ohio, another Republican whom I called, also denied that he was in Ashley's pocket or that Ashley could control his vote.

Nevertheless, when the vote was taken at the first session of the Banking Committee on removing Chairman Patman's power to create special subcommittees, all the Republicans lined up with Ashley — apparently in his pocket.

Another congressman I called was Rep. William Moorhead of Pittsburgh, a Democrat, also reported to be in Ashley's pocket. During the last session, Moorhead, though he professes to be a liberal, lined up on every vote with Ashley for the bankers and against the liberal policies of Wright Patman. Moorhead's father once represented the Frick Coal interests of Pittsburgh; and Helen Frick, a strong supporter of Richard Nixon, sent Moorhead a contribution of $1,000 when he first ran for Congress.

When I asked him if he was in Ashley's pocket, Moorhead protested vigorously. But when I asked him whether he was going to vote with Ashley on the organization of the Banking and Currency Committee, he squirmed, alibied, hesitated, and made it all too clear that he was in fast in Ashley's pocket.

Sure enough, when the votes were called at the first meeting of the committee last week, Moorhead lined up with Ashley to strip Chairman Patman of his power in the same manner Adam Powell was originally stripped last fall.

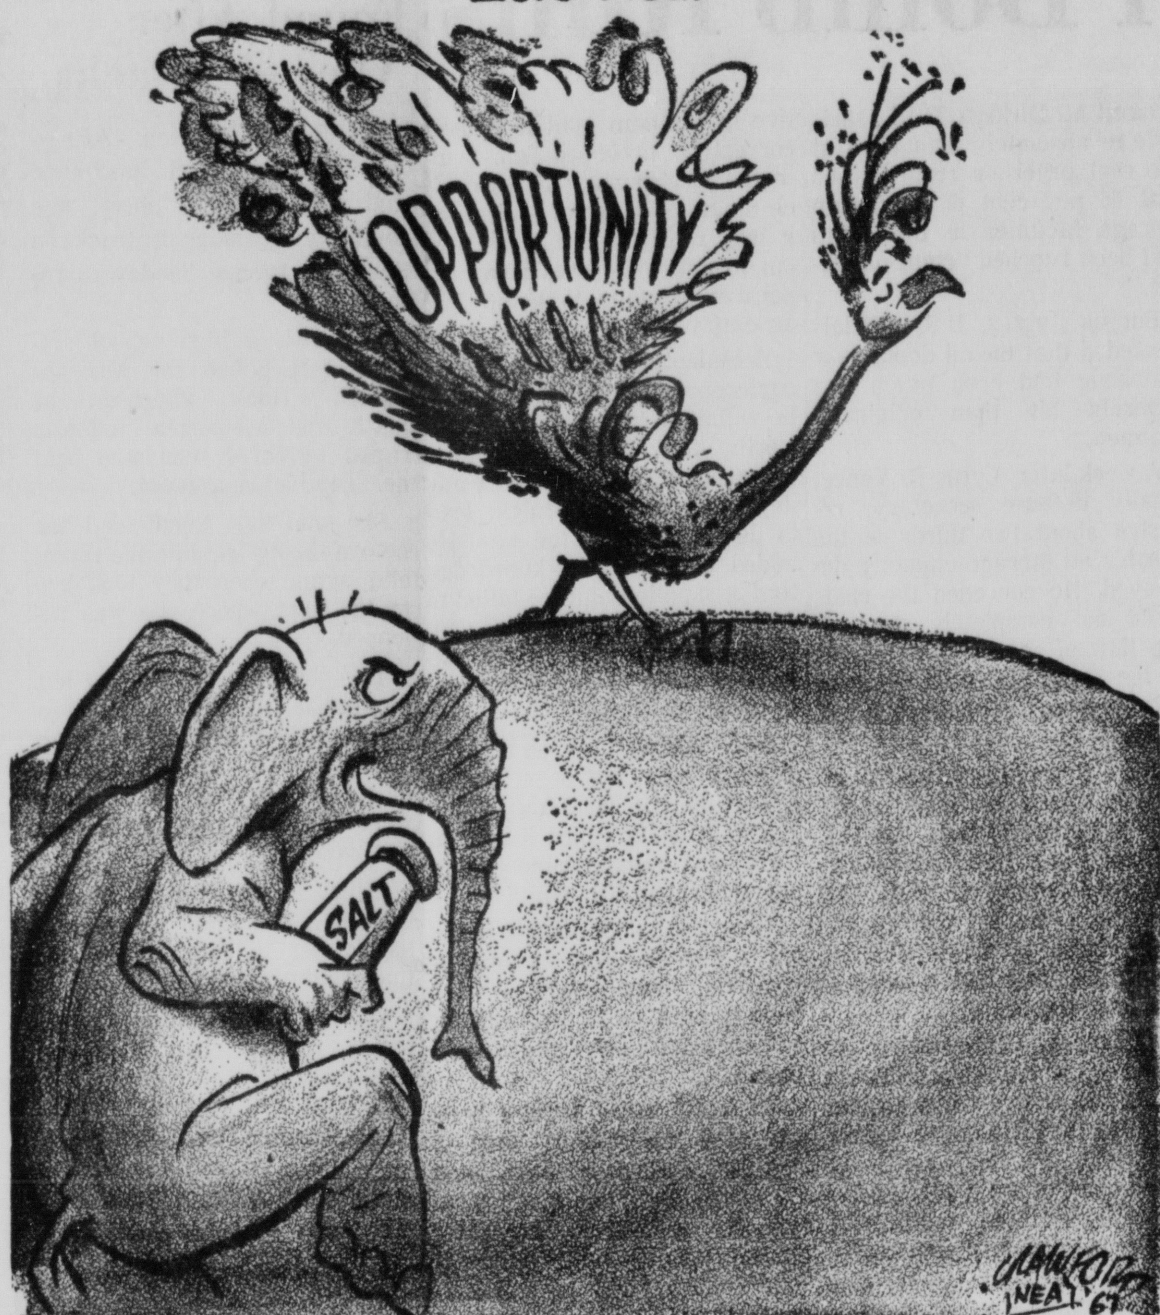

Lining up with the Republicans and against the congressman from Texas, were three Southern Democrats, Robert Stephens of Athens, Ga., Tom Gettys of Rock Hill, S.C., and Tom Beville of Jasper, Ala. All voted to strip the chairman, who had championed low interest rates, of his power to appoint special committees.

They plan to go further at the next committee meeting, probably Feb. 7, and make the chairman almost as impotent as Adam Clayton Powell.

Note — Among the Republicans who lined up with Ashley were Seymour Halpern of New York, who poses as a great liberal on civil rights but favors the big bankers on economic matters; plus Florence Dwyer of New Jersey, who usually votes pro-labor on social security matters; Bill Brock, the Tennessee candy manufacturer; and Don Del Clawson of Calif.; Albert Johnson, Pa.; William Widnall, N. J.; Paul Fino, N. Y.; Sherman Lloyd, Utah; Benjamin Blackburn, Ga.; Garry Brown, Mich.; Lawrence Williams, Pa.; Chalmers Wylie, Ohio.

They are expected to line up again in Ashley's pocket when he moves to strip Patman of further powers.

Optimistic About East-West Relations

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—George F. Kennan is a good example of how the world has changed in 20 years. It's not so tense but it's still puzzled, even if Kennan doesn't seem to be.

In 1947 Kennan — signing himself "Mr. X" — suggested in the magazine Foreign Affairs that the United States halt communism by adopting a tough, go-no-further policy. He was then director of the State Department's policy planning staff.

The United States adopted the policy, which goes under the nice-Nellie name "Containment," and has followed it since.

In 1947 Stalin was still alive and the Chinese Communists were only two years away from taking over the China mainland. Gone was any postwar hope that East-West problems could be settled by sweet reasonableness.

The Soviet Union had gobbled up the East European countries, turning them into a batch of communized, subservient satellites. The Soviets were pressuring Turkey. Red guerrillas had tried to take over Greece. And the U.S.S.R. was using West European Communist parties to work their way in France and Italy.

It was a tense, grim, dark time. But the idea of getting tough with the Soviets wasn't new with Kennan. He happened to speak up at the right time to get action.

As early as 1945, fed up with Stalin, President Harry S. Truman said it was time to stop babying the Soviets. And Winston Churchill, in his "iron curtain" speech of 1946, urged the West to stop the U.S.S.R. in its tracks.

Kennan regarded his "containment" proposal as a temporary necessity. He was optimistic about the future. He thought that if this country put the Soviets under enough pressure they would eventually be forced into moderation. The "gradual mellowing of Soviet power," he called it.

The United States created the Marshall Plan for bailing Western Europe out of poverty and made a series of military alliances around the world, the strongest being NATO in Europe, as a shield against Red pushes anywhere.

Kennan had good vision. In the 20 years since he wrote his piece the Soviet Union has become more moderate, its earlier frenzy has subsided. Its pressure on Western Europe has stopped although, while it has gained no new ground in Europe, it has yielded none. Still independent nationalism has grown in its satellites. In short, Europe has calmed down.

Meanwhile, the United States, dedicated to containment worldwide, has fought two wars to stop any Communist grabs: In Korea and Vietnam. Nevertheless in Asia communism did grab successfully in China and North Vietnam. Yet, both those places are in turmoil. In North Vietnam because of the war with the United States, in China because of its internal convulsions.

For a while the emergence of Red China, and its link with the U.S.S.R., looked like the most ominous development for the West in this century. But now the Red Chinese seem as hostile to the Soviets as to the United States, and so far as anyone knows may be falling apart.

For some time now Kennan has felt his containment policy has outlived its usefulness as he first envisioned it. Recently he said drawing the line against communism has been outdated by the big split in the Communist world.

He thinks now the United States may be able to deal with the U.S.S.R. peacefully. To that extent, his hope of 20 years ago that the Soviets would mellow a bit has turned out to be true.

Nevertheless, the unpredictability of communism is a puzzle, and even though Kennan seems optimistic, not even he can be positive that in another day and under new circumstances the Soviet Union won't revert to what it was in an earlier day.

"Win at Bridge with Jacoby and Son" is the title of a new book that shows 131 hands taken from this column.

The hands are grouped to cover various points of bidding and play.

Hand No. 5 illustrates the use of a three-card suit as the opening bid with a 20-point hand. This is not a forcing club bid. It is not a "short" club in the sense that some people use it. It is a 3-card suit bid because it is just the best way to start out with this type of hand. If partner passes at one club you weren't going anywhere in any event and while you probably would prefer to play at one with a four-card suit you aren't going to be hurt.

This time South responds with one heart and North jumps to two spades and then to four hearts to show his great strength.

South has nine high card points of his own but they look as if they might be just what the doctor ordered. The king-jack of clubs fit into whatever club holding North has. The queen of spades must help the spade suit, and there is nothing wrong about a five-card trump suit headed by the queen-jack-ten.

If North has a singleton diamond the slam should be in the hand. How can South find out about this?

The answer is that he has an easy way to do so. He simply bids five hearts. When your side has bid three suits and you then bid to five of your agreed major suit trump you are telling your partner, "This hand will make a slam if you can take care of the second lead of the fourth suit."

North is looking at his own hand. He sees those two little diamonds and passes.

West takes two diamond tricks and South claims the balance.

CAPITOL

By JIM DAVIDSON

JEFFERSON CITY — Representatives James I. Spainhower (D-Marshall) and W. D. (Bill) Hibler (D-Brunswick) have introduced a bill in the Missouri House of Representatives which would establish a School District Reorganization Commission along the lines recommended by the Governor's Commission on Education.

Rep. Spainhower, chairman of the House Education Committee, explained that the bill would provide funds for a seven-member commission with a task of developing a state-wide plan for school district organization. Members of the commission would serve without compensation.

Present statutes provide that local school districts shall take the initiative to reorganize and form larger districts, leaving the Department of Education with only the power to approve consolidation plans.

The proposed legislation would direct the commission to draft a master plan for school district reorganization in an effort to complete a task begun in 1948 to eliminate or consolidate districts with too few students to be effective.

Rep. Spainhower said the Governor's study was a constructive help in drafting the bill, but pointed out that the need and many of the ideas for the bill arose from educational leadership in the House.

Spainhower said that this proposal probably would receive better support than reorganization has in some isolated school districts in the state. He pointed out that this is a state-wide approach with long-range goals which people could relate to their own district problems.

In addition, he said it would be at least two years before effective reorganization of any districts would be planned or in effect, allowing a "buffer time" for preparation and solving problems in individual districts.

The need for statewide reorganization was highlighted recently in this column by Deputy Commissioner of Education Delmar Cobble. He pointed out that although the state has seen more than 8,400 districts consolidated into 887 since 1948, there are still too many districts with too few students to offer effective programs.

Many high schools, Cobble said, are serving less than 100 to 200 students. To offer a comprehensive program, a high school should have at least 500 students and be graduating a minimum of 100 a year, he said.

NEWSMEN UNDERGO CRITICISM IN HOUSE

The debate in the House of Representatives over the control of live and taped broadcasts finally erupted last week in a broad rule which places complete control in the hands of Speaker James E. Godfrey (D-St. Louis).

Godfrey's new authority came in a vote that split generally along party lines, with Democrats outvoting Republicans, 106 to 54.

Without specific language, Godfrey will operate now at his own discretion an existing House rule that gives him general direction and supervision of the chamber "to preserve decorum and order in the hall."

Godfrey outlines his policy to include live broadcasts and taping from the floor only with his permission. In addition the chief clerk will issue credentials to all bona fide members of the press, and will be subject to immediate revocation if he decides the person has abused his privileges.

There were some hints that this control of the news media might not stop with the House rule, specifically in relation to the consumer fraud law proposed by Rep. E. J. Cantrell (D-St. Louis County).

This bill proposed the prevention of false and misleading advertising by placing authority in the Attorney General to investigate suspected advertising and to enjoin it.

The original bill exempts newspapers and radio and television stations from any responsibility for carrying such advertising and aims only to enjoin the advertiser.

Rep. Kenneth J. Rothman (D-Clayton), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee which is considering the bill, said many of its provisions are being rewritten because of poor drafting.

He added, however, that in his opinion it appears that the various news media effectively screen objectionable advertisements now, and that a law which would hold them responsible for misleading advertising would be too harsh in that it would require them to investigate every advertiser.

Although a subcommittee which he appointed is studying the bill, he felt that it does not appear to be the intent of his committee to shift liability to the news media for misleading advertising.

Rothman added that it generally was not the responsibility of his committee to rewrite bills, but that this one was of sufficient importance to deserve more consideration because of its impact on consumers.

BILL WOULD ALLOW REVENUE BONDS WITHOUT VOTE

A bill proposed recently by Rep. Harold Dickson (R-California) would allow municipalities to pass revenue bonds for airports, utilities and other public facilities without submitting the proposal to a popular vote.

The bill would not allow a municipality to vote a revenue bond without popular vote for purposes of industrial expansion—for example, bonds to construct buildings or purchase land for prospective industries.

Father Charged After His Young Stepson Dies

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Thomas F. Adams, 22, who lives in a trailer in Wyandotte County, was charged with manslaughter after his 2-year-old stepson died of injuries Sunday.

Sheriff Glenn Brunk quoted Adams as saying the child, Ricky Kesterson, fell in the bedroom. Adams said he tried to revive the boy, then took him to a hospital. The sheriff said hospital attendants believed the boy had died an hour before arrival.

The coroner, Dr. Edgar P. Sereres, said the child suffered a skull fracture with brain damage and severe liver injuries.

The child's mother, Mrs. Linda Adams, 18, had gone to her job at a doughnut shop when the boy was hurt, Adams said.

The sheriff said the couple had been married about four months.

Adams was released under $3,500 bond.

Cattle Age A Factor
Calves up to six to eight months of age chew corn so thoroughly there is little need to grind corn for them. However, for calves over eight months old, unless hogs follow them, corn should be ground. Cattle that old gain faster on rations in which the corn is ground.

The grind for cattle should be medium to coarse. If ground too fine, the ration may be dusty which could decrease feed consumption.

INCOME TAX REMINDERS
If you are like many farm families, one of the jobs immediately ahead is to use their records in getting the information needed for properly filing tax returns. For most farmers Federal Tax returns are to be filed by February 15th. Missouri State Tax returns are due on or before April 15th.

Here are some tax reminders that may keep you from overlooking some important transaction of last year's business.

1. Failure to report sales of breeding and dairy animals that were held for at least 12 months, on Schedule D as a long-term capital gain or loss.
2. If breeding animals were purchased in 1966, they can be included on the depreciation schedule.
3. Likewise the cost of purchased animals can be deducted as an expense when they die.
4. Any new building or machinery purchases made last year should be included on the depreciation schedule if they were not charged off as an annual operating expense.
5. Decide if you will claim the first year 20% additional depreciation allowance on any new or used tangible personal property acquired in 1966. This property must have a useful life of 6 years or more when purchased.
6. If any farm land has been purchased, one can allocate a reasonable cost to buildings and start claiming depreciation in the year acquired.
7. For any machinery sold, check to determine if any tax is due by recomputing prior years' investment credit.
8. If you have CCC loans on grains be sure and use the same method of reporting that has been used previously.
9. Be sure and claim your Federal gas tax refund. A special form 4136 is to be used to claim this refund. It is to be included with the form 1040 tax return. The amount of Federal gas tax refund is subtracted from the tax due. Therefore, it is an important item that shouldn't be overlooked.
10. Check into the numerous legitimate business deductions often overlooked which are partially associated with family living.

We have discussed only some of the income tax reminders that are occasionally overlooked in filing tax returns. For more complete information on farm income tax, stop in or call your University Extension Center and ask for a Farmer's Tax Guide.

1967 HERBICIDES FOR CORN
Recommended herbicides for corn are selected by the University of Missouri on the basis of unbiased comparative performance trials conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station. The 1967 M. U. Guide devoted to herbicides used in corn production is divided into three separate sections. These include (1) herbicides that are recommended; (2) herbicides or methods of application that are relatively new but have shown considerable promise—these herbicides or methods are described as "experimental"; and finally, (3) the third section lists those common herbicides that are not recommended generally because they have been found to injure the corn.

The herbicides recommended in the new M. U. Guide are the same as for 1966. Included in this recommended group are 2, 4-D as a preemergent, post-emergent, and lay-by application; atrazine as a preemergent and early postemergent; Randon-T and Ramrod as pre-emergents and Lorox as a directed postemergent. Eptam as an incorporated pre-plant application is recommended only for control of Johnson-grass seedlings or shattercane in corn.

Included in the Experimental Section for 1966 were the Atrazine-Lorox combination and delapone as a postemergent directed spray. Additions for 1967 include Clobber, a new herbicide, as a postemergent directed spray when corn is 8 inches to lay-by, and Banvel-D or a combination of Banvel-D and 2,4-D as an early postemergent. Application methods classed as "experimental" include pre-plant incorporation of atrazine and the use of an oil-water emulsion as a carrier for early postemergence applications of atrazine.

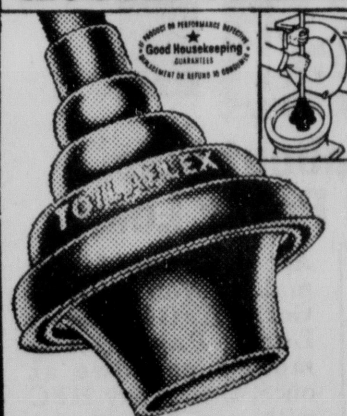

Atrazine applied in an oil-water emulsion must be applied before the weed seedlings reach a height of 1½ inches. A reduced rate of atrazine in the oil-water emulsion is not recommended. The oil-water emulsion early postemergence application of atrazine can be used on sorghum as well as on corn. But if used on either crop, it should be considered "experimental" as it does not have Experiment Station recommendation.

Finally, in the section devoted to herbicides not recommended by the Experiment Station, we have the 1966 pre-emergents which include Amiben, Lorox, and Knoxweed. To this list the 1967 recommendations have added Banvel-D, which is not recommended as a pre-emergent on corn.

The 1967 M. U. Guides devoted to herbicides recommendations for corn will be available soon. They can be obtained at your University Extension Center.

HERBICIDE FOR SOYBEANS
Herbicides recommended by the Agricultural Experiment Station for control of annual weeds in soybeans include: Amiben as a surface applied pre-emergent. Rates of two to three pounds per acre are required. Heavy soils high in organic matter require the three pound rate. The lighter rate may need supplemental cultivation. Forage

Young Girl Is Shot To Death In 'Game'

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Miss Susan Ellen Nickolson, 17, was shot to death early Sunday while playing Russian roulette with a .22 caliber revolver, police said.

Police said the revolver had been stolen from the Twin City Construction Co., Friday night. Russell Lucas, 18, a friend of Miss Nickolson, was arrested and charged with burglary and possession of stolen property.

Police said Lucas and Miss Nickolson were playing with the gun when she was shot in the head.

from treated fields should not be fed to livestock.

Other surface applied pre-emergents that are recommended include Sodium PCP (Weed Beads) Randox, and Ramrod. In the case of Ramrod, FDA clearance is established only for seed production fields.

Treflan is recommended as a pre-plant, soil incorporated herbicide. Treflan is especially effective in controlling such weeds as giant foxtail, shattercane and Johnson-grass seedlings. Treflan will control some of the broad-leaved group but generally is ineffective in controlling cocklebur, velvet leaf, morning glory, prickly sida or Jimson weed. Uniform incorporation is essential for good results. Although the residue carryover needs further investigation, there is evidence that fall-sown small grains may be injured in some situations if sown after soybean harvest.

Herbicides designated as experimental for 1967 include Vernam and Dactal as incorporated pre-emergents; Lorox, Alanap CIPC or "Alanap Plus" and CIPC plus DNB as surface applied pre-emergents. Experimental postemergents include tenoran and Karmex. Tenoran must be applied when the weed seedlings are less than two inches in height. Karmex should be applied as a directed spray when the beans are about eight inches tall. Karmex as a post-directed application can be used on beans grown for seed only. For mid-season or early bloom application, 2,4-DB is still recommended as a salvage operation to control heavy infestations of morning glory or cocklebur.

The only new herbicide included under the experimental heading for 1967 is "Planavin" a Shell product somewhat similar to Treflan in activity. It is incorporated as a pre-plant application.

The 1967 M. U. Guides, which describe all of the recommended herbicides, are being printed and will soon be available at your University Extension Center.

Fulbright Almost Has Given Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman J.W. Fulbright said today he has about given up hope that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will testify at his Senate Foreign Relations public hearings on world policies.

Rusk, who encountered some rough questioning last year during the committee's inquiry into Vietnam, twice has turned down invitations to appear on specific dates.

Each time he told committee officials the press of other business would make it impossible to commit himself.

Rusk already has testified at a closed session but some members are eager to question him publicly. Fulbright said in an interview he has about concluded that Rusk will not testify in open session.

"I should think he would like to defend the administration's position," the Arkansas Democrat said. "But if he doesn't want to testify I have no intention of pressing him."

Reminded that Rusk considered last year's attacks unwarranted, Fulbright said he is interested only in finding out where U. S. policies are leading. He conceded he could not control the questioning of other members.

"I don't think the hearings we have held so far (this year) have been too critical of the administration's policies," Fulbright said. "Some of the witnesses have said, for example, that there are some things they wouldn't have done, but they support the President's position now that we're in Vietnam."

Nevertheless, relations between Fulbright and Rusk are reported to have reached the freezing point, though they are scrupulously polite to each other.

The two are in agreement on support of the U. S.-Soviet consular treaty, a major item pending in Fulbright's committee. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey predicted over the weekend that Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen would also "come around" to support of the pact.

Dirksen has voiced reservations but has not irrevocably committed himself on the treaty.

Political Fights Project An Ancient Family Battle

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) —Some of the bitterest fights between Nicaraguan Liberals and Conservatives have taken place at the Luxurious Managua Country Club.

This just about sums up the ideological, social and economic differences — or lack of them — between the two major political forces in this country.

Who represents, politically, the little man, the gardener, the caddy, the cook, who work at the country club

The Conservative and Liberal parties. They are large and flexible, roomy enough for princes and paupers.

The political struggle here, which culminates in presidential elections Sunday, is essentially a projection of an ancient family feud dating back to Spanish colonial days.

The Chamorro and Sacasa families — Conservative and Liberal respectively, in the old tradition — rank like the Cabots and Lodges in this largest of Central American countries. The standard bearers are Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, 45, a publisher, and Gen. Anastasio (Tachito) Somoza Jr., 41, whose father, founder of the oldest political dynasty in Latin America, married into the Sacasa family.

Gen. Somoza is the Liberal party candidate for president.

Chamorro, jailed on a charge of terrorism, is the second-ranking figure in the present political opposition headed by Dr. Fernando Aguero, eye specialist and conservative presidential candidate in the elections.

Chamorro once led an armed invasion against the Somoza dynasty, was captured, imprisoned and later released. Two weeks ago Chamorro and Aguero led a demonstration that erupted into a violent clash between national guardsmen and armed Conservative partisans.

The fight is a phase in the political evolution of this politically backward country.

There seems more opportunism than ideology in what passes for political opposition here. Personal enmity is a substantial motivating element on both sides. The gap of anger separating them seems widened by official Liberal party charges that Marxists have infiltrated the opposition. At the same time, there appears to be some justification to Conservative complaints that the government is indiscriminately applying the label of Communist to all the opposition.

To some neutral observers here, the recent political explosion was a clear manifestation of the growing presence and pressures of liberal thought, in the modern sense, amid the old structures.

No political expression or organization alien to the traditional Liberal and Conservative sectors had been allowed to flourish here, it is said, out of a common fear of third-party challenge. Conservatives and Liberals revised and enlarged their frameworks to make room for a measure of dissidence. One view is that this sort of "filtered liberalization" alienated the old guard on both sides and filled the business community with apprehension.

On the other hand, liberalization was coming too slow for some of the younger, more aggressive generation, especially those fed up with the 30-year-control of their country by one family, the Somozas.

The political turmoil appears not to have slowed the tempo of one of the fastest growing economies in Central America. This "land of lakes and volcanoes" has one of the best highway networks in the area. Its gross domestic product, $530 million in 1965, or $321 per capita, has been accelerating at an 8.4 per cent annual clip since 1961, well above the 3 per cent yearly birth rate.

The foreign debt, $55.8 million, is only 8 per cent of annual export receipts, making for an enviable credit position abroad. There are no currency controls and a law passed in 1956 guarantees export of profits.

On the negative side are a high illiteracy rate, 51.8 per cent, a shortage of skills and a bleak gap between the rich and poor.

Until the Somoza-backed government cracked down hard on the opposition following the Jan. 22 violence, there was little to suggest the existence of an old-fashioned dictatorship. It still seems to have a long way to go before it could be compared with the Dominican Republic under Rafael Trujillo or Cuba under Fulgencio Batista.

The sons of the dynasty's founder, Luis and Anastasio Somoza, were educated in the United States, the former at Louisiana State University, the latter at West Point. They seem dedicated to the development of their country and to know they cannot govern with the tools their father used. Their major hindrance, intimates say, is their name, their worst potential enemy themselves.

Tough Over-Time Battle Keeps Bruins Atop List

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California, once a warm spot on UCLA's schedule, turned suddenly cool last weekend and almost froze the top-ranked Bruins out of college basketball's unbeaten ranks.

Only a thaw during an over-time period enabled the Bruins to overcome the Trojans 40-35 Saturday, run their victory string to 17 and avoid the upset of the season.

The rest of the Top Ten scored relatively easy victories, except ninth-ranked Vanderbilt, which fell victim to hot-handed Florida 83-75.

Highly-regarded Tennessee also had problems, losing to Mississippi 56-53 in overtime, and remained in an 8-2 tie with Vanderbilt for the Southeastern Conference lead.

UCLA remained the only major school with a perfect record when Toledo lost to Marshall 96-81, the Rockets' first defeat after 14 triumphs.

USC came within one last shot of leaving the perfect list vacant after two free throws by Lucius Allen tied the score for UCLA at 31-31 with 2:19 left in regulation time.

The shot missed, however, and UCLA broke the stall in overtime as Bill Sweek stole the ball twice for scores and Lew Alcindor, who led all scorers with 13 points, added another basket.

Southern Cal was bombed by the Bruins twice earlier, so the change of tempo did not surprise UCLA Coach John Wooden. But he warned others who try it.

"In the long run, the stall will kill the teams who employ it," he said as he prepared his club for home games this weekend against Oregon State and Oregon.

Fifth-ranked Princeton, which beat Harvard 66-59 for a 17-1 record, has been the only other ranked team faced with a freeze. But the Tigers survived, beating Dartmouth 30-16 earlier in the week.

Toledo could blame its fall on George Stone, who scored 31 points for host Marshall.

Skip Higley branded Vanderbilt with 22 points at Gainesville as Florida held third in the SEC with a 9-4 mark.

Dale Stevens' layup with four seconds left burned Tennessee at Oxford, Miss.

North Carolina, No. 2 at 14-1, stayed a step ahead of Duke and South Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference by easily beating Maryland 85-77 as Rusty Clark and Larry Miller each scored 20 points. The Tar Heels have a full week against Virginia Tuesday, Wake Forest Thursday and Georgia Tech Saturday.

Louisville, No. 3, revengeed one of its two losses in 20 games, holding off a late Cincinnati challenge for a 65-57 Missouri Valley Conference triumph. Westley Unseld had 19 points for Louisville.

The loss all but eliminated the defending champion Bearcats and left the Cardinals at 7-1 and headed for a Feb. 18 clash against Tulsa, 5-1, which lost out of the conference to fourth-ranked Texas Western 61-53.

Louisville faces Drake at Des Moines Wednesday and then third-place Wichita State, 5-2, at home Saturday.

Seventh-ranked Kansas remained a half game behind Nebraska in the Big Eight after crushing Iowa State at Ames, Iowa, 68-50 while the Cornhuskers beat Kansas State 67-59 on the road. They meet in a showdown Tuesday at Lawrence, Kan.

Western Kentucky protected its No. 8 ranking, belting Middle Tennessee 95-62 for its 16th straight after an opening loss.

Houston, No. 6, and Providence, No. 10, were idle Saturday before springing into a week of three games each. The Cougars play Lamar Tech tonight, Hardin-Simmons Thursday and Notre Dame Saturday. St. Bonaventure, Fairfield and Niagara await the Friars.

Will Meet Tonight

Clay, Terrell In New Verbal Assault

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay calls Ernie Terrell "a one-armed bandit." Terrell calls Clay "an incomplete fighter." They both may be right, but tonight they will battle for the undisputed heavyweight championship of the world and the millions that often go with boxing's richest prize.

Clay, 25, undefeated and generally regarded as the world champion, is a 4-1 favorite over a 27-year-old foe who has won 15 straight fights and is recognized as the titleholder by the World Boxing Association.

"I'm going to punish him," says Clay. "He's going to receive a Floyd Patterson humiliation beating."

The 6-foot-3 Clay gave Patterson a torturous whipping before the referee stopped that slaughter in the 12th round of their title bout Nov. 22, 1965.

"He doesn't bug me like he has some of the others he's whipped," said the 6-foot-6 Terrell. "His mouth isn't going to help him against me. I know I can beat him. I'm going to knock him out. And the beauty of it is that I'm going to get paid for it."

Clay will collect about $750,000 and Terrell will earn upwards of $250,000 for this long awaited fight.

A crowd of 35,000 may pay

US Has Good Chance At First Bobsled Title

ALPE D'HUEZ, France (AP) — The United States, which hasn't grabbed a world title since 1936, stands a good chance of taking the world's two-man bobsled championship, a former world champion says.

The championships opened today with teams from 11 countries competing. The U.S. is represented by drivers Robert Said, a real estate developer from Waccabuc, N.Y., and Howard Clifton, an Elnora, N.Y. businessman.

"Said is an excellent driver and he can pull a big surprise," said Stan Benham, Missoula, Mont., a three-time world champion who is acting as an advisor to the team. "His sled is brand new and works like a clock."

"He should do it."

His chief opposition should come from defending champions Eugenio Monti and Sergio Siorpaes of Italy and Austrian champions Erwin Thaler and Reinhold Durnthaler.

about $400,000 at prices ranging from $5 to $100 for Clay's eighth title defense and sixth within 11 months. The site is the magnificent Astrodome which can seat 60,000 for a fight.

The big money, however, will come from closed circuit telecasts to arenas and theaters in the United States and Canada, the live hookup by the communication satellites to England and Japan, radio, and the delayed tape telecasts in 24 other countries.

It will be the first event to be beamed simultaneously to both Europe and Asia by the satellites.

The telecast will be beamed to 165 locations in 130 cities in the United States, to 13 cities in Canada, and over 69 community antenna systems.

Clay will collect 50 per cent of all receipts. Terrell will receive 20 per cent of the Astrodome gate and 17 1/2 per cent of the ancillary rights.

The fight will start about 10:30 p.m., EST.

Clay, a pro since October, 1960, has racked up a 27-0 record including 22 knockouts. He won the title on a seventh round technical knockout of Sonny Liston on Feb. 25, 1964 and has beaten Liston (1), Patterson (12), George Chuvalo (15), Henry Cooper (5), Brian London (3), Karl Mildenerberger (12) and Cleveland Williams (3), in title defenses.

The third round knockout of the once-feared Williams was performed in the same Astrodome last Nov. 14 before a record indoor fight crowd of 35,460 that paid $461,290.

Terrell, a pro since 1957, has a 39-4 record including 18 knockouts. He has been stopped once, by Williams in the seventh round on April 3, 1962 in Houston.

Williams at the time was rated the hardest hitter in the heavyweight division.

Terrell, who relies on a piston-like left jab, avenged that defeat by outpointing the Big Cat a year later in Philadelphia. Since the loss to Williams, Terrell has bowled over 15 straight opponents including Amos Lincoln, Zora Foley, Eddie Machen, Chuvalo, and Doug Jones. Machen, Chuvalo and Jones, the last one on June 28, were beaten on 15 - round decisions in WBA title fights.

The victory over Machen earned Terrell the WBA's recognition as world champion. The WBA had stripped Clay of the title for signing for a return bout with Liston in the face of a warning from the boxing body against doing so.

Ferrari Is Back On Top Racing Heap

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ferrari, dethroned as king of road racing in 1966, is back on top.

Stung by Ford victories at Daytona and LeMans a year ago, Enzo Ferrari brought a carefully prepared set of new 12-cylinder models to Daytona International Speedway, and the brilliant Red Ferraris crossed the finish line first, second and third in the 24-hour Daytona Continental Sunday.

Lorenzo Bandini of Italy and Chris Amon of New Zealand were first, and Mike Parkes of England and Ludovico Scarfiotti of Italy were three laps — 11 miles — back in the sister car.

The third Ferrari, a rebuilt 1966 model nearly matching the new ones, was 110 miles behind. Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico and Jean Guichet of France lost ground with mechanical trouble in the closing hours. But everyone else had trouble too, and they held third place.

The fourth place Porsche 6, driven by Hans Hermann of Germany and Jo Siffert of Switzerland was 183 miles back of the winner.

Ford was buried behind a string of broken transmissions that plagued all but one of its six Mark II starters. The lone Ford factory car to avoid the transmission plague had overheating troubles and visited the pits for water every 15 laps around the 3.81-mile course.

When the checkered flag waved, the Mark II of Bruce McLaren, England, and Lucien Bianchi of Belgium was in seventh place a distant 278 miles behind.

Amon, who was fifth last year in an earlier version of the Ford Mark II, made a comparison.

Of his 1966 Ford ride, he said: "It's rather like driving a truck compared to a car."

The Mark II weighed about 900 pounds more than the Ferrari.

The 1-2 factory Ferraris were as free of trouble as a car could be in a 24-hour race.

"We had no problems; nothing that would put us out of the running," Amon said. "The major task of pit crews was fueling and changing tires."

With three Ferraris and two Porsches taking the first five places American machinery suffered a setback after two years of victory in endurance classics here and at Sebring, Fla.

Black Hawks Still Going At Full Pace

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Glenn Hall's damaged leg and Stan Mikita's bruise ribs haven't slowed up the Chicago Black Hawks, but Rod Gilbert's aching back has brought the New York Rangers to an anxious standstill.

Denis DeJordy, who replaced Hall a week ago after the regular Chicago goalie suffered a deep skate gash above his left knee, fashioned a 36-save shut-out Sunday night as the National Hockey League leaders ran their unbeaten streak to 11 games by burying Boston 5-0.

Mikita, injured in Saturday night's 3-3 tie at Montreal, was used sparingly against the Bruins but managed to add an assist to his NHL point lead.

The second-place Rangers, meanwhile, whipped Toronto's staggering Maple Leafs 4-1 — then marked time pending a diagnosis of Gilbert's latest back ailment. The All-Star right wing, who has bounced back from two spinal operations to lead New York scorers with 23 goals, hurt his back again in Saturday night's 4-3 victory at Boston.

He started against the Leafs, but was unable to go the distance and was to have his back X-rayed today to determine the extent of the injury.

Reggie Fleming, with his first goal in 26 games, and Boom Boom Geoffrion, with his second in two nights, led the Ranger attack against the Leafs, who have lost nine in a row and are being pressed for fourth place by the onrushing Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings, triggered by Paul Henderson and Ray Cullen, bounced third-place Montreal 6-1 in Sunday night's other game and climbed within one point of Toronto.

Bobby Hull scored his 32nd goal and Phil Esposito picked up a goal and two assists as the black Hawks, 9-0-2 since Jan. 14, protected their 10-point league lead.

Springfield Tops MIAA Cage Circuit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Springfield State outclassed Kirksville 89-59, stayed on top in the MIAA and proved it belongs in the nation's top 10 Saturday night, while Drury took over the MCAU lead and 10th-ranked Lincoln bombed Southwest Baptist.

Springfield has a perfect 5-0 record in MIAA play, 14-3 for the season with one 50-49 loss to top-ranked Southern Illinois. One of the victories was 73-63 over potent San Diego State, which upset strong Tulsa 59-57 at Tulsa, but the voters remain unimpressed.

Dan Bolden led Springfield with 29 points and 15 rebounds. Cape Girardeau, upset earlier in the week at Maryville, won 74-69 at Rolla Mines to stay in second place at 5-2. Warrensburg moved out of the cellar as Calvin Pettit led a 85-60 romp over Maryville at Warrensburg.

Louisville Still Has Its Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Louisville's immensely talented basketball team still has the lead in the Missouri Valley conference after knocking Cincinnati out of the race and as coach Peck Hickman says, "They're gonna have to catch us."

Hickman's Cards ran up a 32-15 bulge in the first 14 minutes before 17,550 at Louisville largest crowd ever to see a Valley league game. That proved too much for Cincy, but the Bearcats did manage to rally with in four points before Louisville took over again and won 65-57.

This left the Cards, ranked No. 3 nationally, with a 7-1 Valley record against Tulsa's 5-1. They are headed for a showdown Feb. 18 at Tulsa, but first each must play three league games, two on the road.

Tulsa's six-game winning streak was ended 61-53 by Texas Western's defending NCAA champs Saturday night at Tulsa. For all games, Tulsa is 14-4.

Wichita's clutch-loving little team pulled out another tight one, 63-61 over St. Louis in the weekly afternoon television game, and stayed on Tulsa's heels at 5-2. It's still a three-team race, with enough games left to afford many possibilities.

Wichita's high-leaping 6-foot-2 Warren Armstrong won it with three big plays in the last two minutes. With his team down 59-58 he tied up a St. Louis player, got the tip, missed a shot but tipped it in for a 60-59 edge. St. Louis regained the lead 61-60 on Gene Moore's goal but Armstrong tipped in Ron Washington's miss for a 62-61 lead.

"Armstrong simply made two great tip-ins," said Buddy Brehmer, St. Louis coach. "If I had it to do over, I'd still play 'em the same way."

The taller St. Louis team, which owned a 46-36 rebound margin, once led by 11 points, 49-38, but Wichita refused to fold.

Westley Unseld again was Louisville's top man with 19 points and 10 rebounds. His rival, Rick Roberson, scored 16 and grabbed 10. The defeat left Cincy at 4-4 in league play.

Texas Western surprised Tulsa with a zone defense, first in the six-year coaching career of ex-Oklahoma starter Don Haskins.

In other games, Drake belted North Texas 94-75 at Des Moines with balanced shooting led by Willie McCarter's 21; Bradley got 30 points from Joe Allen and whipped Creighton 103-85 at Peoria; and new member Memphis State lost 55-51 at Florida State.

The league race resumes Wednesday with Cincy at Wichita, Louisville at Drake and St. Louis at North Texas. Tulsa makes a vital two-game road swing to Bradley Thursday and St. Louis Saturday.

Nossek, Fazio Return Signed Contracts

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Outfielder Joe Nossek, a good ball-hawk and a 261 hitter last season, and utility infielder Ernie Fazio have returned their signed contracts to the Kansas City A's.

Nossek came to the club from Minnesota for the waiver price. Fazio joined the club as part of a trade which sent Jim Gentile to Houston.

Italy Wins First Run Of Contest

ALPE D'HUEZ, France (AP) — Driver Eugenio Monti and his brakeman, Sergio Siorpaes, the defending champions from Italy, won the first run of the two-man world's bobsled championship today as American hopes were dealt a severe blow.

The second and final run down the 1,000-meter Col de Poutan ice chute was postponed until Tuesday because large sections of the ice coating on the chute gave way, causing a safety hazard to the 22 sleds from 11 nations.

Before the competition began, Stan Beham of Missula, Mont., a three-time world champion who is acting as an advisor to the American team, expressed high hope for the U.S. No. 1 sled driven by Robert Said, a real estate developer from Waccabuc, N.Y.

"Said is an excellent driver and he can pull a big surprise," Benham said. "His sled is brand new and works like a clock." However, Said finished 14th in 1 minute, 96-100 seconds, far off Monti's 58.43.

The U.S. No. 2 bob, piloted by Howard Clifton, an Elnora, N.Y., businessman, was eighth in 59.29.

Said's brakeman is Philip Dupre of Raybrook, N.Y. In Sunday's final practice run the duo turned in the third fastest time. James Crall of Troy, N.Y., rides with Clifton.

The United States hasn't taken the title since the 1936 Winter Olympics at Garmisch, Germany. Second place on the first run went to Austrian champions Erwin Thaler and Reinhold Durnthaler in 58.61. Wolfgang Zimmerer and Hubert Braun of West Germany were fourth in 58.59, and Max Kaltenberger and Hans Ritzl of Austria were fourth in 58.72.

Ready For His Turn

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Neil Steinhauer is off the mark with his shot putting and Bob Seagren has not set a pole vault record in more than a week now, but little Gerry Lindgren might be ready for his turn at the indoor track record book.

Lindgren whizzed to a two-mile victory in 8:31.6 at the Seattle Invitational Saturday night, that clocking is dangerously close to Ron Clarke's indoor two-mile record of 8:28.8, and by far the best time of the season.

"Not bad," said the Washington State student who is scheduled for another chance at the record this Friday in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet in New York.

Lindgren handily beat Bill Baillie of New Zealand, whose 8:37.7 clocking would have been more impressive under other circumstances.

Steinhauer, meanwhile, finally got his long-awaited rematch with Randy Matson in the indoor shotput, but this time the script was different.

Matson of Texas A&M came up with a heave of 66-10 1/4 inches on his final throw, at San Diego, Calif., giving him the victory over Steinhauer of the University of Oregon, who a month ago dealt Matson his first defeat in the event since the 1964 Olympics. Steinhauer had a best toss of 66-2 1/4.

Since that meeting, Steinhauer raised the indoor record to 67-10, and Matson has complained that throwing the indoor shot isn't his style and he'll have no more of it.

And Seagren, who raised the indoor pole vault mark to 17-2 two weeks ago, didn't even win the event in San Diego. Both he and Chris Papanicolaou of Greece, now attending San Jose State, cleared 16-6, but Papanicolaou won with fewer misses. Both of them missed at 17-2 1/2.

The only indoor record broken over the weekend was the American 1,000-yard standard, which fell to Tom Von Ruden of the Long Beach, Calif., Track Club in 2:06.8. That clocking in the San Diego meet, was a second better than Ted Nelson's previous U.S. record, but eight-tenths of a second off Peter Snell's world mark.

At the Philadelphia Inquirer meet, Kerry O'Brien wound up his fine American tour with his third straight meet record in the two-mile, winning in 8:46.6. In the previous 10 days, O'Brien, who started back home to Australia Sunday, had set meet records in Boston and New York.

A prospective duel between Dave Patrick, NCAA mile champion from Villanova, and Noel Carroll of Ireland and formerly a Villanova student, never came off at the Philadelphia meet as Patrick led all the way, winning in 2:09.2. Carroll finished last.

Other top victories at Seattle went to Harry Jerome of Vancouver, B.C., who won the 50-yard dash in 6.1 and to Darrell Horn of the San Francisco Athletics Club, winner of the long jump at 25-3.

Doris Brown of Seattle set a women's record in the 880, winning in 2:08.5. The old mark was set just a week earlier by Francine Kraker of the Michigamers at 2:09.7.

San Diego victories went to veteran Jim Grelle in the mile at 4:08.4, Lee Evans of San Jose State in the 600, Otis Burrell in the high jump at 7 feet and Ralph Boston with a 25-10 long jump.

Nebraska, Kansas Will See Action

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
Nebraska and 7th-ranked Kansas, the only once-beaten teams in the hot Big Eight basketball title race, collide Tuesday night at Lawrence, Kan., after both scored near-perfect road victories against strong foes.

Unpredictable Oklahoma gave the Kansas-Nebraska showdown added importance by upsetting Colorado 71-66 at Norman Saturday. This cost Colorado a share of first place. Nebraska now has a half-game edge, 5-1 to 4-1 for Kansas, with Colorado and K-State tied at 4-2.

Kansas can take over first place alone for the first time this season by beating Nebraska, but to stay on top the Jayhawks would have to beat arch rival K-State at Manhattan in Saturday's televised game.

"It was our best team effort overall," said Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano after his Huskers laced K-State 67-59 at Manhattan. "We have started to come. Our defense and rebounding made the difference."

The smaller but quicker Huskers were in a semi-delay pattern much of the time and Cipriano explained "we wanted to take advantage of them one-on-one and I think we did."

Nebraska hit 48 per cent of its shots, controlled the backboards 48-37 with Nate Branch grabbing 15 and led by as much as 15 late in the game. Sprung-legged Stuart Lantz had 19 points for the Huskers, who wrapped it up with a 10-0 spurt for a 26-13 lead midway in the first half.

Kansas spurted to a 21-6 lead in the first 10 minutes at Iowa State, hitting 10 of 17 shots while the Cyclones were 1-for-11 against the tenacious Kansas defense. The final was 68-50, the club's third victory over Iowa State in five weeks. Jo Jo White led Kansas with 23 points. "It was out best first half of the season," said Kansas coach Ted Owens. "Vernon Vanoy did a good job on Don Smith although he scored 27 points." Roger Bohnenstiel, top Kansas scorer, needed 14 stitches to mend a head wound suffered in a rebound scramble with 8 1/2 minutes gone. The loss all but killed title hopes for Iowa State, now 4-4. A crippled Missouri team ended a 12-game losing streak by edging Oklahoma State 60-56 at Columbia in the other league game. Oklahoma plays at Missouri in the other conference game Tuesday night. "The extreme change in tempo from our zone defense the first half to the man-for-man press the last half upset Colorado," said Oklahoma coach Bob Stevens. With Stevens frantically calling for a timeout, OU got the go-ahead goal, 62-61 with 2:22 left, then quickly made it 69-61. Missouri coach Bob Vanatta started three backliners with three men out, one on an injury Saturday, the others on grades. Tom Johnson, one of the regulars Vanatta didn't lose, scored 23 points to lead the Tigers.

Satellite Offers An Art Tour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In Sunday night's "Bravo Picasso," NBC enlisted a communications satellite in an ambitious experiment to bring art, an ocean apart, to people in their living rooms.

We saw paintings and sculpture in museums of Paris, Dallas and Fort Worth, all the work of Pablo Picasso, now 85, from his 'teens to the present.

The effect was a guided tour, with commentary by Yves Montand, a friend of the painter, and art expert Aline Saarinen in Paris and Douglas Cooper, a Picasso expert, in Texas.

The auction of a big painting donated by the artist for the benefit of the committee to rescue Italian art was the least interesting part of the program.

Art auctions, even when conducted by satellite simultaneously in New York, London, Hollywood and Dallas are about as stimulating to watch as chess. The painting, "Reclining Woman Reading," was auctioned in the last few minutes of the show.

The Fort Worth Museum of Fine Arts finally got the painting — which had been insured for $250,000 — for $105,000.

The technical staffs stationed at various points did excellent jobs with lighting and cameras.

"The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" had its premiere on CBS Sunday night with Tom and Dick involved in their usual wrangling interrupted here and there by some singing. Ed Sullivan appeared without anything to do. Jim Nabors sang a couple of songs. Jill St. John had a song-and-dance number with the chorus boys and was in a pretty dreadful sketch with Tom Smothers based on "Romeo and Juliet."

The two young stars may have a problem filling the hour if the first program is indication of things to come.

"Skinny and Fatty," a charming Japanese film about the friendship of two little boys, started off CBS's "Children's Film Festival" in great style Sunday afternoon.

Kukla, Fran and Ollie served, with their usual warmth and

Absence Of Governor Will Be Conspicuous

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Governor of Missouri will be conspicuous by his absence next month as New York Sen. Robert Kennedy addresses a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner in Kansas City.

A spokesman for Governor Warren E. Hearnes said he will be unable to attend because of a previous commitment for a fund-raising dinner in St. Louis which will honor Attorney General Norman Anderson.

Democratic State Chairman Delton Houtchens of Clinton, Mo., told the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Sunday that the Anderson dinner had been cleared through his office for some time. Houtchens said he first learned of the March 10 dinner in Kansas City last week.

Bodies Of Missouri Men Found In Wreck

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The bodies of two Missouri men were found Sunday in the wreckage of a single-engine plane on a mountaintop two miles from the Washington County airport.

The victims were the pilot, James Clark, 28, of Maplewood and Bruce Holloman, 29, St. Louis.

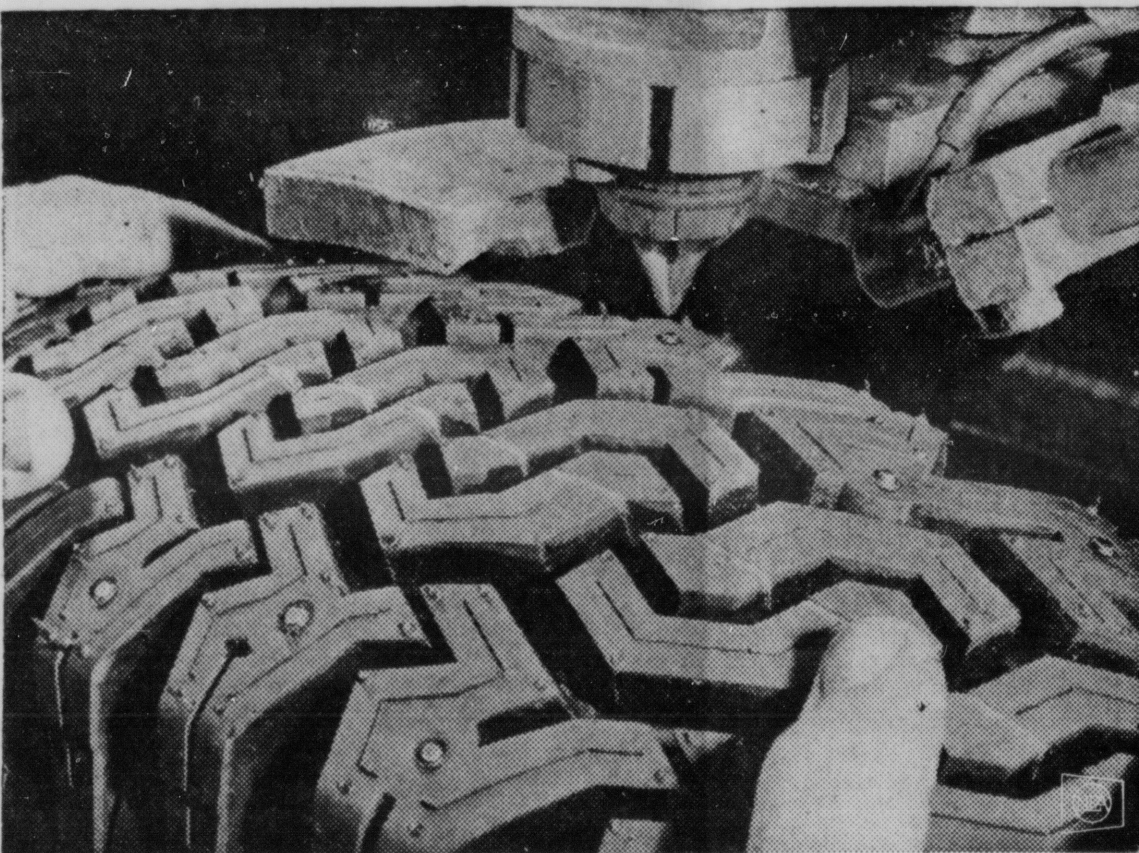

The last radio contact with the pilot was early Saturday when he reported he was low on fuel over Bellaire, Ohio.

Hike In Beer Drinking

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — West Germans drank 16 billion pints of beer last year, a 4 per cent increase over 1965, the government reports. The average consumption per citizen was listed at more than 266 pints. The average for persons older than 15 was 346 pints.

humor, as hosts. The eight-year-old film had the voices speaking English, but they were all slightly accented, letting children know that although the little actors looked different and spoke a different tongue, they were very much like little boys at home.

ABC within a few weeks will reshuffle its daytime schedule, dropping "The Nurses," a soap opera, and adding a gossip-interview show from Hollywood and another game show.

STUDDED FOR TRACTION, this tire shows the steel spikes securely locked into a new winter tire. The studs improve traction on ice and hard-packed snow, but some states outlaw them, claiming they damage highway surfaces. Yet Goodyear estimates that 20 per cent of their winter tires to be sold this winter season will be studded.

Congress To Take A Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress plans to recess late this week for its first 1967 holiday after more tussling with the national debt, the Powell case and reorganization.

The holiday scheduled to start Thursday is for the Lincoln's Birthday period, traditional time of Republican celebrations. It is listed to end by the middle of next week.

The House will take up on Wednesday a bill to boost the national debt limit to $336 billion, $6 billion over the present temporary ceiling.

President Johnson urgently asked for a $7 billion boost but the House Ways and Means Committee cut that back by $1 billion.

Funeral Services Are Set For Moberly

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for O.H. Moberly, 93, state finance commissioner 1933-39, who died Saturday night.

Moberly was a banker in Harris, Mo., before he became state finance commissioner under Gov. Guy Park. He was president of the Jefferson National Bank and Trust Co., of St. Louis 1939-45.

Wednesday a special House committee will begin considering the case of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the New York Negro Democrat refused his House seat pending an investigation.

Powell has been invited to appear Wednesday. The Senate will continue to debate the congressional reorganization bill, first legislation it has considered this year.

Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., floor manager for the bill, said there was no chance to complete action on it before the recess.

He said he expects the Senate's break to extend through a second holiday planned for Washington's Birthday.

Nine Killed On Highways In Missouri

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nine persons were killed in traffic accidents in Missouri over the weekend.

A Maryville State student, Steven Olds, 18, Des Moines, Iowa, was killed Sunday in a head-on collision on U.S. 71 just south of Maryville. Five other persons were injured.

James W. Norman, 29, St. Louis was killed Sunday when the car he was driving rolled over several times four miles north of Butler on Route W. Two passengers were injured.

Two St. Charles men were killed Saturday night in a collision on Highway 180 in Bridgeton. The victims were Charles E. Boyd, 54, and Louis M. Price, Jr., 47. Boyd was alone in one car and Price was a passenger in the other auto.

Three men were killed in a head-on collision east of Mexico Saturday. Six others were injured, three of them critically.

The dead were Jack C. Holt, 33, Fulton, Lloyd D. Frankel, 31, Mexico, a passenger with Holt.

All the injured were in Coleman's car. The highway patrol said Holt apparently swerved into the wrong lane and met Coleman's car head-on.

Michael Heinz, 18, St. Louis County youth, was killed Saturday in a collision in that county. Three other youths were injured.

Alice Miller, 23, Columbus, Ind., was killed Saturday when a car overturned west of Jonesburg, on Interstate 70. She was a passenger in an auto that skidded on frost-covered pavement and turned over several times.
